Lone Stamp Is Reported For County

Geisse Of Wellsville Only Name To Date On Gambling List

Only one gambling stamp has been issued in Columbiana County since July 1. It went to a Wellsville man who operates a poolroom.

For the first time in years, none was listed for East Liverpool, according to the Cleveland office of the Internal Revenue Service.

The lone stamp was obtained by Frank E. Geisse, 361 Main St., Wellsville, location of the Fourth St. Recreation. East Liverpool has had as many as 12 to 15 in past years, especially when the numbers racket flourished.

The sale in Ohio of the $50 federal tax stamps, which the law says horse race bookies and other gamblers were required to have when the new fiscal year started July 1, is falling far behind the pace set last year.

Throughout the state only about half as many stamps have been sold as were issued for the fiscal year ended June 30.

In the Columbus District, 10 stamps have been sold for the current fiscal year compared with 25 last year. The story is the same in the Cincinnati District, where sales for this fiscal year total 19 compared with 56 the previous year.

The IRS reported the new list was not yet available in the Toledo District, which had 83 stampholders last fiscal year for the second largest number in the state.

About two-thirds of the stamp sales so far have been concentrated in the Ohio River counties of Jefferson and Belmont, with 13 each; the Lake Erie counties of Cuyahoga and Lorain, with nine and eight, respectively; and the Dayton-Springfield area with a total of 18.

Not a single applicant for a federal stamp was reported from Stark County, which currently has the heat on gambling operation. Last year 22 stamps were sold in the county.

BELMONT COUNTY

Anthony Chirpas, John W. Fields, John W. Fox Jr., William C. Fox, Steve Koutsondis, Lester P. Long, Theresa Mangiapane, Frederick Sorg, John J. Snyder and John W. Fox.

57 Gambling Stamps Issued Hancock Spots

Taverns and clubs in Hancock County have obtained 57 of the $250 gambling tax stamps for the new fiscal year from the U. S. Internal Revenue Department at Parkersburg.

These do not license gambling operations but are merely for tax purposes.

Stamps of this denomination are for slot machines, pinball boards, and similar devices. The $50 stamp is for persons who conduct gambling, such as card game operator or numbers writer.

Fourteen of the stamps were issued for Chester area clubs and taverns. Five were issued in Newell and two in New Cumberland, with the remainder going to purchasers in Weirton.

Brooke County obtained 26 of the gambling tax stamps while Wheeling had the largest number of any city in the state—126.

Crucible Office Force To Get Vacation Pay

The schedule for making vacation payments for office clerical employes of the Crucible Steel Co. at Midland was announced today by George Burrier, works manager.

Burrier said that 1959 vacation pay, which has not already been received by salaried employes included in the union bargaining unit, will be paid Friday between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. at the main office building.

The arrangement was made by Workers Local 3177 of the United Steelworkers, Burrier said.

Approximately 300 employes will be involved.

Budgets Boosted For Schools, City

Council Approves $474,214 For 1960 Fund

The sum of $474,214 for operation of the city in 1960 was approved in a budget at a special meeting of City Council late Monday afternoon.

On a motion by Councilman Samuel Webber, Council unanimously accepted the finance committee's recommendation that the budget be approved and forwarded to the County Budget Commission.

Besides Webber, others attending were Councilman William E. Kaiser, William Y. Orr and H. A. Tullis. Council President B. E. Warner presided.

The budget asks $4,544 more than the city appropriated for this year.

The budget estimates the total receipts will be $474,214 as against $469,670 appropriated for operation of municipal departments this year.

It estimates the receipts will include:

Property taxes, $103,400; classified property tax, $24,200; sales tax, $45,000; dealers' intangible and financial institutions, $50,000; cigarette tax, $3,500; inheritance tax, $15,000; admissions tax, $8,000; city income tax, $33,614; liquor permits, $30,000; fees and forfeitures, $50,000; health subsidy from the state, $1,500; inspections, $1,000; birth and death certificates, $1,000; parking meter revenue, $52,000; rents, permits and licenses, $15,000, and firemen's levy, $41,000. No balance is anticipated for the end of this year.

State law requires a hearing before the budget is transmitted to the commission in Lisbon. The commission will determine what income the city can expect from all sources next year, including property taxes.

Using the figures set up by the commission, Council will make up its appropriation for the new year.

$1,606,286 Fund Set At Session Of Board

A budget asking $43,336 more than was appropriated this year was adopted Monday night by the Board of Education.

The 1960 budget for $1,606,286 for school funds, including $1,364,136 for general operating expenses, will now be submitted to the County Budget Commission.

The commission will determine what revenue the school district can expect from all sources next year, including property taxes, and the board will use the figures to make up its appropriation.

The new budget does not include some $79,000 additional expected in state foundation aid. School officials have been advised by the Ohio Education Association the district should receive that amount but no official word has been forthcoming from the State Department of Education.

More than half the increase probably won't be received, school officials indicated, explaining it is customary for subdivisions to seek 100 per cent while generally allowed to adopt only about 95 per cent of their anticipated revenue.

The general fund expenses include:

Administration salaries, $33,706; instruction salaries, $986,609; salaries for co-ordinate activities, $11,025; salaries for auxiliary agencies, $23,200; salaries for school plant operation, $99,000; maintenance salaries, $4,800; supplies, $78,650; contract and open order services, $111,900; fixed charges and contributions, $9,746, and capital outlay, $5,500.

In other funds, the budget asks $120,000 for maturing bonds and $55,650 for interest on bonds and $66,500 for the cafeteria fund.

Approval of the budget was recommended by the finance committee of C. Walter Ashbaugh and Samuel W. Brown, both of whom were unable to attend last night's meeting.

A public hearing was held prior to adoption, as required by law.

Joint Session Held Again On Steel Issues

Feelings Strained By Bitter Words At Monday's Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel negotiators met today in a strained atmosphere brought on by an exchange of bitter statements Monday over failure to end the industry shutdown.

Almost complete silence prevailed as bargaining teams for the Steelworkers Union and the basic steel industry took their places around the conference table once more.

It was the third joint session of the negotiators since the union's strike halted almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel production three weeks ago. The second such meeting, held Monday, failed to break their prolonged deadlock.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, is sitting in on the talks.

Asked if he had noticed any change in the attitude of either side as a result of criticism of both industry and union by Secre-

3 Wellsville Men File For School Board

Rush Continues For Ballot Place Before Deadline Wednesday

Three candidates for the Wellsville Board of Education entered today for the Nov. 3 general election as a last-minute rush continued to swamp the County Election Board.

Although keeping the staff busy with new petitions, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said many more petitions are anticipated before the deadline Wednesday at 4 p.m.

A total of 132 candidates have entered for nonpartisan township, village and school post seats. O'Hanlon said, but explained 249 sought similar offices in the 1957 general election.

Wellsville's board of candidates include Earl A. Bake, president, who has served many years, and two newcomers, Richard S. Rowe and Charles W. Glass.

Elizabeth C. Strabley became the first to file for the County Board of Education while a fourth candidate — Arthur Miller —filed for re-election to a four-

Toledo Turns To Mall Plan In Bid To Retain Business

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Downtown Toledo, fighting to hold its retail business from the lure of shopping centers in the outskirts, is using some of the tricks of its suburban rivals.

The city began Monday a 45-day trial of four downtown pedestrian malls, complete with grass, trees, flowering shrubs, blooming flowers, benches, and a playground for the kiddies.

And to top what the shopping centers offer, the malls include an elongated pool containing five penguins from the Toledo Zoo and at other spots Saturday from the Toledo Museum of Art.

All this where only four days ago were only asphalt, cement, brick, and the busy bustle of vehicular traffic.

Thousands of Toledoans responded as the malls officially opened, milling through the four-block area, and, as was hoped, dropping in at the stores around it to browse and buy.

Inspector Frank Baumgartner, head of the Police Traffic Bureau, said traffic on the rims of the malls was heavy but kept flowing smoothly.

To get space for the malls the city shut off two blocks each of Adams St. and Madison Ave. between Huron and St. Clair Sts. Thirteen bus lines were rerouted.

Over the week end 150 workmen placed 2,400 feet of asphalt curb to outline curving walkways down the center of the mall blocks. Eighty tons of topsoil was leveled back of the new curbs and topped with 350 square yards of sod.

The workmen set out 110 young trees, more than 100 shrubs, and some 10,000 flowering plants. To-

Nixon Hears New Cheers From Poles

Sightseeing Tour Of Warsaw Included On Today's Action

By A. I. GOLDBERG

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon continues his triumphal, whirlwind visit to Communist-ruled Poland today with an official luncheon and a sightsseing tour of Warsaw.

Today's itinerary included lunch with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, a visit to a housing development, a three-hour drive through Warsaw's suburbs, and a talk with students at the University of Warsaw.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam gives a reception for the visitors tonight and they fly back to Washington Wednesday.

During another day of cheers from wildly enthusiastic Polish crowds, Nixon spent 5½ hours Monday discussing international issues and Polish-American problems with Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka. He wound up his arduous day as guest of honor at a reception by President Aleksandr Zawakski.

Nixon was accompanied by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of the President, at his long talk with Gomulka. Three hours had been allotted for the visit, but the party chief had lunch brought to his office so the discussion could continue.

Also present were Premier Cyrankiewicz and Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki, author of a Soviet-supported plan for an atom-free zone in central Europe which the United States has opposed.

Nixon said later the talk had ranged over international matters as well as Polish-American problems.

The length of the talk forced Nixon to cancel a visit to the remnant of Warsaw's Jewish ghetto, where about 500 persons waited patiently to get a look at the vice president.

Speaking in the great hall of the palace of Poland's cabinet, the vice president recalled that President Eisenhower had seen the war destruction in Poland 14 years ago and that Nixon himself had seen Warsaw's reconstruction.

Nixon referred to his talks with Polish leaders during the day.

"There was complete agreement on this one issue: what happened to Warsaw, what happened to Poland in the last war, to Poland that suffered in two wars, must not happen again either to Poland or any other country on earth," he declared.

Plane Crash Kills Two In Wooded Area

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Two men died in the crash of a single-engine private airplane near here late Monday night.

State Highway Patrolmen early today found the bodies of William Ellis Prouty, 41, of Rt. 4, Cambridge, and Russell Clark, 46, of Cambridge in the wreckage on a farm seven miles southeast of Zanesville.

The plane was piloted by Prouty, proprietor of the Casa Loma night club just east of Cambridge on U.S. 40.

Prouty also ran a service station east of Cambridge, and an attendant there said Prouty had taken Clark for a ride in his four-seater airplane about 10:30 p.m.

The farmer, Ralph Shaver, said he and his family heard a plane, apparently in trouble, circling about their farm. He said he saw it nose downward, then disappear behind a hill. A loud boom followed.

Eisenhower Takes Direct Policy Hand

Final Details Must Be Worked Out On Coming Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is taking a direct hand in U. S. foreign policy discussions, raising them to a summit level whether or not the talks result in a summit conference.

His exchange of visits with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and an earlier trip to Europe to confer with heads of the major Western Allies will give Eisenhower direct contacts with the participants in any later summit meeting.

A generally favorable reaction, both in this country and elsewhere in the world, greeted Monday's announcement that Khrushchev has accepted Eisenhower's invitation to visit the United States next month.

Many expressed hope that East-West tensions would be eased if Khrushchev were impressed first hand with the nation's strength and peaceful intentions.

Talks with Eisenhower and a 10-day tour of the country are among the plans for the Khrushchev visit. Reports from Moscow said the Soviet Premier is expected to bring along his wife, son and daughter.

With most details still uncertain, there has been no announcement whether Mrs. Eisenhower will accompany her husband to Europe.

The Khrushchev announcement overshadowed Eisenhower's plans for an earlier series of meetings with British, French, and West German heads of government. These could bear importantly on his talks with Khrushchev.

U.S. officials said details of the newly announced travels must be worked out. But they spoke in terms of Eisenhower's attending a Western Big Three summit meeting in Paris, plus talking separately with the British and French chiefs and with Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Eisenhower was expected to go to Paris in the latter part of August. Khrushchev is due here in September, perhaps around midmonth. No date has been fixed for Eisenhower's own later visit to the Soviet Union.

Senator Asks 'Courteous', Safe Welcome

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala) proposed today a campaign for public understanding to insure a safe and courteous U.S. reception for Soviet Premier Nikita Krushchev.

Sparkman, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was among a majority on Capitol Hill who applauded President Eisenhower's decision to exchange visits with the Soviet leader.

There were some, however, who angrily protested, like Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn), who called Eisenhower's invitation "a national disgrace."

The Khrushchev visit, he said, will "discourage millions of neutrals throughout the world and reduce the will of our own people to resist the evil forces of communism."

But the general reaction among Congress members — and among state governors meeting in San Juan, Puerto Rico—was that the potential good far outweighs the possible harmful effects.

Sparkman, like a majority of those who commented, voiced the hope that out of the exchange of visits could come understanding that might ease the many tensions that threaten world peace.

Columbianan Dies In Crash While Backing

County's 1959 Traffic Toll
17 KILLED
This date in 1958—11 killed!
TAKE YOUR TIME IN '59

A 77-year-old Columbiana area man was killed Monday afternoon when his backing car and another auto crashed on the Lower Elkton Rd. near Columbiana.

Harvey L. Ferrall of Columbiana, custodian at the village dump, was pronounced dead at Salem City Hospital from chest injuries received in the collision with a car driven by William D. Grate, 35, of 217 S. Lincoln Ave., Lisbon.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Mr. Ferrall, driving north in a 1952 sedan, apparently missed the place where he planned to turn off the roadway and backed his car.

It was struck in the rear by the other northbound auto of Grate, according to officers who timed the mishap at 5:20 p. m.

Mrs. Emily Grate, 30, wife of the other driver, received a sprained ankle, but their four children were unhurt, the patrol said. Grate's 1952 sedan and the other car were damaged badly, officers said.

The mishap still is being investigated.

The death marked the 17th traffic fatality in Columbiana County this year, compared to 11 at this time in 1958.

Born in 1881 in Mahoning County, Mr. Ferrall was a resident of the Columbiana area all his life. He was married in 1949 to Laura Frankford, who survives, along with a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Ann Ferrall, and a son, Robert Lee Ferrall, at home.

Services will be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 at the Fry Funeral Home at Columbiana. Friends may call Thursday at the funeral home.

New 'Big Eye' To Probe For Space Facts

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A giant new radar telescope—second largest in the world—will be built here to explore secrets of space, sun and planets.

This huge eye can boldly peep through the foggy veil worn by Venus for revealing discoveries about that coy planet.

Scientists also hope it can tell how dusty the moon is, yield more facts about the sun, and accurately measure distances to other planets.

Right now such distances are so uncertain that space travelers from earth might miss Mars by 200,000 miles.

Plans to build the giant eye were announced today by Stanford University and the Stanford Research Institute.

The telescope will have a big, dish-shaped antenna 142 feet in diameter and will stand as tall as a 15-story building.

U.S. Will Keep Allies Filled In On Any Talks

Full Consultation Pledged If Specific Proposals Come Up

GENEVA (AP) — The United States has assured its chief Western Allies it will inform them fully of developments in the talks between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and will consult them on any specific agreements which may be proposed.

Eisenhower, officials say, is determined not to give Khrushchev any opening for a wedge between the United States and other countries in the Western Alliance.

Informed officials said the President, in his European swing before he meets Khrushchev, will assure British Prime Minister

Channels 'Must Be Followed'

State Shies From Ruling On Tougher Immunization

The Board of Education learned Monday night it must go "through channels" before the state attorney general's office will decide whether the board can enact a tougher version of a state law governing immunizations against five diseases.

Although the ruling would affect every school board in the state, an assistant attorney general told the board it would be "inappropriate" for the state attorney general's office "to take jurisdiction of your question and advise you officially" because the powers and duties of the office are limited by statute.

In effect, the letter told the board it must seek an official opinion from City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, who apparently then can ask the state office for a ruling or refer it to County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, who can refer the question.

The board passed a motion at its meeting July 20 asking Supt. Ralph W. Betts to contact the attorney general's office to see if the local board can make its policy on immunizations more strict than the state legislation which was termed "weak-kneed."

The state law requires vaccination against smallpox and immunizations against polio, diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus unless the parents object.

The board members pointed out the new law is not as strict as the board's former policy which required students to be immunized against smallpox and diphtheria with religious grounds as the only valid objection. The new legislation passed by the State Legislature does not require parents to give any reason for their objections.

And to top what the shopping centers offer, the malls include an elongated pool containing five penguins from the Toledo Zoo and at other spots Saturday from the Toledo Museum of Art.

All this where only four days ago were only asphalt, cement, brick, and the busy bustle of vehicular traffic.

Thousands of Toledoans responded as the malls officially opened, milling through the four-block area, and, as was hoped, dropping in at the stores around it to browse and buy.

Inspector Frank Baumgartner, head of the Police Traffic Bureau, said traffic on the rims of the malls was heavy but kept flowing smoothly.

To get space for the malls the city shut off two blocks each of Adams St. and Madison Ave. between Huron and St. Clair Sts. Thirteen bus lines were rerouted.

Over the week end 150 workmen placed 2,400 feet of asphalt curb to outline curving walkways down the center of the mall blocks. Eighty tons of topsoil was leveled back of the new curbs and topped with 350 square yards of sod.

The workmen set out 110 young trees, more than 100 shrubs, and some 10,000 flowering plants. To-

Nixon Hears New Cheers From Poles

Sightseeing Tour Of Warsaw Included On Today's Action

By A. I. GOLDBERG

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon continues his triumphal, whirlwind visit to Communist-ruled Poland today with an official luncheon and a sightsseing tour of Warsaw.

Today's itinerary included lunch with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, a visit to a housing development, a three-hour drive through Warsaw's suburbs, and a talk with students at the University of Warsaw.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam gives a reception for the visitors tonight and they fly back to Washington Wednesday.

During another day of cheers from wildly enthusiastic Polish crowds, Nixon spent 5½ hours Monday discussing international issues and Polish-American problems with Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka. He wound up his arduous day as guest of honor at a reception by President Aleksandr Zawakski.

Nixon was accompanied by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of the President, at his long talk with Gomulka. Three hours had been allotted for the visit, but the party chief had lunch brought to his office so the discussion could continue.

Also present were Premier Cyrankiewicz and Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki, author of a Soviet-supported plan for an atom-free zone in central Europe which the United States has opposed.

Nixon said later the talk had ranged over international matters as well as Polish-American problems.

The length of the talk forced Nixon to cancel a visit to the remnant of Warsaw's Jewish ghetto, where about 500 persons waited patiently to get a look at the vice president.

Speaking in the great hall of the palace of Poland's cabinet, the vice president recalled that President Eisenhower had seen the war destruction in Poland 14 years ago and that Nixon himself had seen Warsaw's reconstruction.

Nixon referred to his talks with Polish leaders during the day.

"There was complete agreement on this one issue: what happened to Warsaw, what happened to Poland in the last war, to Poland that suffered in two wars, must not happen again either to Poland or any other country on earth," he declared.

Plane Crash Kills Two In Wooded Area

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Two men died in the crash of a single-engine private airplane near here late Monday night.

State Highway Patrolmen early today found the bodies of William Ellis Prouty, 41, of Rt. 4, Cambridge, and Russell Clark, 46, of Cambridge in the wreckage on a farm seven miles southeast of Zanesville.

The plane was piloted by Prouty, proprietor of the Casa Loma night club just east of Cambridge on U.S. 40.

Prouty also ran a service station east of Cambridge, and an attendant there said Prouty had taken Clark for a ride in his four-seater airplane about 10:30 p.m.

The farmer, Ralph Shaver, said he and his family heard a plane, apparently in trouble, circling about their farm. He said he saw it nose downward, then disappear behind a hill. A loud boom followed.

Aug. 22 Wedding Date Set By Steve And Anne

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP) — Steven Rockefeller and Anne Marie Rasmussen said today they've definitely settled on Aug. 22 for their wedding date.

Steven told a news conference his father and mother, Gov. and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, will attend unless something completely unexpected happens.

Eisenhower Takes Direct Policy Hand

Final Details Must Be Worked Out On Coming Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is taking a direct hand in U. S. foreign policy discussions, raising them to a summit level whether or not the talks result in a summit conference.

His exchange of visits with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and an earlier trip to Europe to confer with heads of the major Western Allies will give Eisenhower direct contacts with the participants in any later summit meeting.

A generally favorable reaction, both in this country and elsewhere in the world, greeted Monday's announcement that Khrushchev has accepted Eisenhower's invitation to visit the United States next month.

Many expressed hope that East-West tensions would be eased if Khrushchev were impressed first hand with the nation's strength and peaceful intentions.

Talks with Eisenhower and a 10-day tour of the country are among the plans for the Khrushchev visit. Reports from Moscow said the Soviet Premier is expected to bring along his wife, son and daughter.

With most details still uncertain, there has been no announcement whether Mrs. Eisenhower will accompany her husband to Europe.

The Khrushchev announcement overshadowed Eisenhower's plans for an earlier series of meetings with British, French, and West German heads of government. These could bear importantly on his talks with Khrushchev.

U.S. officials said details of the newly announced travels must be worked out. But they spoke in terms of Eisenhower's attending a Western Big Three summit meeting in Paris, plus talking separately with the British and French chiefs and with Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Eisenhower was expected to go to Paris in the latter part of August. Khrushchev is due here in September, perhaps around midmonth. No date has been fixed for Eisenhower's own later visit to the Soviet Union.

Senator Asks 'Courteous', Safe Welcome

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala) proposed today a campaign for public understanding to insure a safe and courteous U.S. reception for Soviet Premier Nikita Krushchev.

Sparkman, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was among a majority on Capitol Hill who applauded President Eisenhower's decision to exchange visits with the Soviet leader.

There were some, however, who angrily protested, like Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn), who called Eisenhower's invitation "a national disgrace."

The Khrushchev visit, he said, will "discourage millions of neutrals throughout the world and reduce the will of our own people to resist the evil forces of communism."

But the general reaction among Congress members — and among state governors meeting in San Juan, Puerto Rico—was that the potential good far outweighs the possible harmful effects.

Sparkman, like a majority of those who commented, voiced the hope that out of the exchange of visits could come understanding that might ease the many tensions that threaten world peace.

Columbianan Dies In Crash While Backing

County's 1959 Traffic Toll

17 KILLED

This date in 1958—11 killed!

TAKE YOUR TIME IN '59

A 77-year-old Columbiana area man was killed Monday afternoon when his backing car and another auto crashed on the Lower Elkton Rd. near Columbiana.

Harvey L. Ferrall of Columbiana, custodian at the village dump, was pronounced dead at Salem City Hospital from chest injuries received in the collision with a car driven by William D. Grate, 35, of 217 S. Lincoln Ave., Lisbon.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Mr. Ferrall, driving north in a 1952 sedan, apparently missed the place where he planned to turn off the roadway and backed his car.

It was struck in the rear by the other northbound auto of Grate, according to officers who timed the mishap at 5:20 p. m.

Mrs. Emily Grate, 30, wife of the other driver, received a sprained ankle, but their four children were unhurt, the patrol said. Grate's 1952 sedan and the other car were damaged badly, officers said.

The mishap still is being investigated.

The death marked the 17th traffic fatality in Columbiana County this year, compared to 11 at this time in 1958.

Born in 1881 in Mahoning County, Mr. Ferrall was a resident of the Columbiana area all his life. He was married in 1949 to Laura Frankford, who survives, along with a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Ann Ferrall, and a son, Robert Lee Ferrall, at home.

Services will be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 at the Fry Funeral Home at Columbiana. Friends may call Thursday at the funeral home.

New 'Big Eye' To Probe For Space Facts

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A giant new radar telescope—second largest in the world—will be built here to explore secrets of space, sun and planets.

This huge eye can boldly peep through the foggy veil worn by Venus for revealing discoveries about that coy planet.

Scientists also hope it can tell how dusty the moon is, yield more facts about the sun, and accurately measure distances to other planets.

Right now such distances are so uncertain that space travelers from earth might miss Mars by 200,000 miles.

Plans to build the giant eye were announced today by Stanford University and the Stanford Research Institute.

The telescope will have a big, dish-shaped antenna 142 feet in diameter and will stand as tall as a 15-story building.

U.S. Will Keep Allies Filled In On Any Talks

Full Consultation Pledged If Specific Proposals Come Up

GENEVA (AP) — The United States has assured its chief Western Allies it will inform them fully of developments in the talks between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and will consult them on any specific agreements which may be proposed.

Eisenhower, officials say, is determined not to give Khrushchev any opening for a wedge between the United States and other countries in the Western Alliance.

Informed officials said the President, in his European swing before he meets Khrushchev, will assure British Prime Minister

Channels 'Must Be Followed'

State Shies From Ruling On Tougher Immunization

The Board of Education learned Monday night it must go "through channels" before the state attorney general's office will decide whether the board can enact a tougher version of a state law governing immunizations against five diseases.

Although the ruling would affect every school board in the state, an assistant attorney general told the board it would be "inappropriate" for the state attorney general's office "to take jurisdiction of your question and advise you officially" because the powers and duties of the office are limited by statute.

In effect, the letter told the board it must seek an official opinion from City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, who apparently then can ask the state office for a ruling or refer it to County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, who can refer the question.

The board passed a motion at its meeting July 20 asking Supt. Ralph W. Betts to contact the attorney general's office to see if the local board can make its policy on immunizations more strict than the state legislation which was termed "weak-kneed."

The state law requires vaccination against smallpox and immunizations against polio, diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus unless the parents object.

The board members pointed out the new law is not as strict as the board's former policy which required students to be immunized against smallpox and diphtheria with religious grounds as the only valid objection. The new legislation passed by the State Legislature does not require parents to give any reason for their objections.

How Much Of A Bulwark Is NATO?

As the North Atlantic Treaty Organization enters its second decade, just how much of a bulwark is it? Here is the first of four on-the-spot reports.

By BEM PRICE

PARIS (AP)—For 10 years now the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been looked upon as the sword and shield of Europe.

The sword is the retaliatory striking power of the West—nuclear or thermonuclear bombs delivered against the Soviet Union by manned aircraft or missiles.

U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO's present military chief, once emphasized Europe's need for a strong defensive shield by observing that unless an aggression was soon halted, the Allies would be faced with the impossible task of separating the invaders from the invaded as targets for nuclear weapons.

At the moment, the shield appears thin and the sword, while still sharp, is losing some of its edge compared with the powerful and increasingly modern Communist forces arrayed against it.

A reporter's tour of NATO commands indicates that as matters now stand the Allies possibly could muster 250,000 men on the ground next to the Iron Curtain though not all would be mobile forces equipped with up-to-date arms.

The immediately available air cover for central Europe now consists of somewhere between 1,500 and 2,000 net aircraft of all types.

The Allies also have a classified but apparently limited, missile counter-punch, mostly in the short range category.

This Allied force confronts a Soviet bloc in central Europe which Western sources say has 1½ million men close to the borders of the free world and a 23,000-all-jet air force, most of which is concentrated in the western Soviet Union and the satellites.

In addition, the Soviets are said to be building large numbers of missile launching sites for their 700-mile range M103 missiles and their 1,500-mile T2 intermediate range missiles in the satellite areas west of the U.S.S.R.

Although written into existence April 4, 1949, as a military organization NATO really began Jan. 7, 1951, with the arrival of Dwight D. Eisenhower, then a five-star general, to assume command of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe (SHAPE). The organization's assignment: to safeguard the freedom, common heritage and civilization of the signatory nations.

Upon his first inspection tour Eisenhower found only seven skinny divisions and an air force of about 400 planes, mostly piston-engine types.

Meanwhile, the technology of warfare was undergoing a steady evolution. The age of the guided missile and the battle-field rocket had arrived. Each can carry atomic warheads.

In the dawning age of atom-toting missiles and rockets, the need for armies to increase their mobility and dispersion likewise increased. The day of the foot soldier, fighting in mass, was ending.

When NATO was born the aircraft detection radar operated 40 hours a week. Now the radar network scans the Iron Curtain around the clock. It still has a short range, reaching only to the Soviet border. But gaps in the network have been plugged.

Once it took SHAPE commanders eight hours to reach a subordinate command. Now a radio and telephone system provides immediate contact.

A spiderweb of supply dumps containing a 90-day stockpile of combat needs has come into being. About 2,000 miles of a projected 3,600 mile gas and oil pipeline now exists.

All these developments, however urgently needed, do not in themselves defend central Europe, which is the heart of NATO.

NEXT: The Shield.

Hancock Cuts Tax Valuation

NEW CUMBERLAND — Property assessments in Hancock County have been set for 1959 at $104,813,873—a drop of $10,901,632, according to Assessor Edward L. Suplee.

The decrease is directly attributed to the constitutional amendment adopted by West Virginia voters last year providing exemption of bank deposits from state taxation.

Exempted from taxation this year are $8 million in deposits in the Hancock County Federal Savings & Loan Association in Chester, and about $4 million in 2 Weirton banks.

Real estate properties were increased from $73,743,350 to $75,637,550 due to real estate buildings, equalization of valuations and a rise in the holdings of the Weirton Steel Co.

Assessments were reduced in Weirton and Chester but were up slightly in New Cumberland.

The county assessments are: Class 1, $17,370,545, and utilities, $458,700, a total of $17,829,245; Class 2, $18,318,200; Class 3, $4,332,600 (real estate), $2,903,760 (personal property); Class 4, $51,092,550 (real estate), and $16,084,750 (personal) and $2,870,100 (utilities.)

Chester assessments are: Class 1, personal property, $9,017,559; utilities, $45,100; Class 2, real estate, $1,753,000; Class 4, $2,462,440. New Cumberland assessments are: Class 1, $97,348; Class 2, $629,500; Class 4, $996,260.

Rural properties in the county are assessed at $14,079,740, a drop of $1,131,104 from last year.

Evangelistic Talk Set At Camp Services

Services will continue tonight at picturesque Hollow Rock in Jefferson County near Route 213 with an evangelistic sermon by the Rev. Charles Williams of Lancaster, the youngest minister on the camp meeting staff.

Rev. Williams will speak at 7:30 following a young people's meeting at 6 with Miss Janie Bradford of Washington, Pa., in charge.

The 122nd annual 10-day series ends Sunday.

Wednesday, Dr. T. M. Anderson of Wilmore, Ky., will conduct worship services at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Williams will lead another service at 2:30 p. m. The main service Wednesday night at 7:30 will be conducted by Dr. H. W. Couchenour of University Park, Iowa.

Dr. Couchenour used a question, "Have You Received the Holy Ghost Since You Believed?", from Acts 19:2, during evening services.

Musical features included two selections by "The Helmsmen," a Bethany College male quartet, and singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the Hollow Rock choir. The entire audience joined in the singing of the chorus after the choir had sung.

Missionary Day will be Friday. Hollow Rock supports 19 missionaries spread over four continents. Some of them will be present.

Hayfever Victims Ask City Have Weeds Cut

Have you ever suffered with hayfever or similar complaints?

If so, you can sympathize with those sneezers who have called Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross's office in City Hall to seek relief in the form of weed cutting, particularly on vacant private property.

The director has appealed to those who own the lots overrun with weeds to have them cut to bring some relief to their neighbors who may be suffering from hayfever, asthma and other respiratory ailments.

There is no city ordinance governing weeds, Ross explained, saying he had to appeal to civic pride and to understand the relief it will bring to the long-suffering victims.

Rev. Williams will speak at 7:30 following a young people's meeting at 6 with Miss Janie Bradford of Washington, Pa., in charge.

The 122nd annual 10-day series ends Sunday.

Wednesday, Dr. T. M. Anderson of Wilmore, Ky., will conduct worship services at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Williams will lead another service at 2:30 p. m. The main service Wednesday night at 7:30 will be conducted by Dr. H. W. Couchenour of University Park, Iowa.

Dr. Couchenour used a question, "Have You Received the Holy Ghost Since You Believed?", from Acts 19:2, during evening services.

Musical features included two selections by "The Helmsmen," a Bethany College male quartet, and singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the Hollow Rock choir. The entire audience joined in the singing of the chorus after the choir had sung.

Missionary Day will be Friday. Hollow Rock supports 19 missionaries spread over four continents. Some of them will be present.

Hayfever Victims Ask City Have Weeds Cut

Have you ever suffered with hayfever or similar complaints?

If so, you can sympathize with those sneezers who have called Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross's office in City Hall to seek relief in the form of weed cutting, particularly on vacant private property.

The director has appealed to those who own the lots overrun with weeds to have them cut to bring some relief to their neighbors who may be suffering from hayfever, asthma and other respiratory ailments.

There is no city ordinance governing weeds, Ross explained, saying he had to appeal to civic pride and to understand the relief it will bring to the long-suffering victims.

Saw Injures East End Man

An East End man injured on a saw and a LaCroft girl burned on an iron were treated at City Hospital Monday, along with a woman and four youngsters injured in other mishaps.

Paul Redmond, 51, of 1710 Pennsylvania Ave. suffered a partial amputation of the left thumb on a table saw. He was treated at 8:20 p. m.

Sherry Lynn Smith, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith of 5th Ave., LaCroft, received second degree burns of the right hand on a steam iron.

In a fall on the sidewalk, Gary Davis, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Davis of Fisher Ave., received a cut of the eyebrow.

David Fey, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fey of Glenmoor, received a cut of a finger on a knife at home.

Fred Brown, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown of Calcutta, was treated for a laceration of the right hand received on a glass at home.

In reply to the superintendent's query, a letter from Joseph R. Ralston, an assistant in Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy's office, said:

"The powers and duties of the attorney general are fixed by statute, and he is thereby limited to advising state officers, boards, commissions, bureaus and the county prosecuting attorneys in controversies in which the state is or may be a party. It would, therefore, be inappropriate for this office to take jurisdiction of your question and advise you officially thereon.

"Section 3313.35 Revised Code provides that the prosecuting attorney shall be the adviser to all school boards except city boards of education where the city solicitor shall be the adviser."

Although the opinion has been delayed for two weeks, leaving just a month before the new school term starts when the new policy takes effect, the board voted to file the letter and refer its question to the solicitor.

James Lowe, who voted against passage of a resolution carrying out provisions of the new state law at the last meeting, again attacked the legislation after a motion was made by James B. Moss to file the letter and contact Cooper for an opinion.

Lowe remarked, "I'll second the motion so it won't fail" and then commented, "We would be doing well to impose the same regulations as before until we are prevented by the state. It's very poor legislation. There was no foresight used.

"At the next meeting when the full board can attend, I am going to try to see what I can do about carrying out the former policy."

Moss said, "It may be weak-kneed but we have no means of correcting the state. I don't like it, but if its the law we have to abide by it."

Lowe said he believes the state should allow the board to follow the same procedure it has in the past. "We all know this is wrong."

Board members said they understand the new law will be discussed at the next physicians' meeting.

Only Moss, Lowe and Leo C. Lawrence, president, attended the meeting. C. Walter Ashbaugh was out of town and Samuel W. Brown is on Army Reserve duty.

Salem Fruit Growers Elect 3 As Directors

LISBON — Three Salem area men, R. C. Lamb and John Kalafus of R. D. 5 and Richard Sitler of R. D. 3, were elected to the Board of Directors for three-year terms, at the annual meeting of the Salem Fruit Growers Association Monday at Greenford High School. Other board members are A. A. Less and Joe Less of R. D. 5, Raymond Knopt of R. D. 3, George Wilms and Charles Mattevi, all of Salem, and Frank Papania of New Waterford.

Henry Ross of Salem, manager of the storage plant at Greenford, gave the yearly report. Joe Less read the report. A. A. Less, president, and Leonard Hively of Columbiana gave the financial report.

J. C. Hedge of Canfield, retired Mahoning County extension agent, gave the invocation and also spoke briefly as did the present agent, William Phillip, and Columbiana County Agent Floyd Lower. Eighty attended.

2 Suits Ask $77,750 For Highway Mishap

LISBON — Suits asking total damages of $77,750 were filed in Common Pleas Court Monday as the aftermath of a traffic accident March 18.

John Shaffer of R. D. 5 asks $51,450 and Louis Barronzzi of Sunset Dr. asks $26,300 from C. F. Waite, Inc., of Akron as defendant in both suits.

Barronzzi, who operates a gas station in Lisbon, had taken gas to Shaffer, when his car ran out of fuel. Both cars were parked on Route 45 when a truck belonging to the Akron Company and driven by Charles Davis, struck the rear of Barronzzi's car, pushing it into the Shaffer car and injuring both drivers.

Chester VFW Approves New Year's Orchestra

The contract was signed with Dick Golden of East Liverpool.

Earl Pittenger, commander, reported on the Hancock County conservation camp at Tomlinson Run State Park to which the post sponsored four boys and a girl in July.

The next meeting will be Sept. 21.

Board Hires School Nurse

A school nurse and a clerk for a county school were employed when the Western Beaver County Board of Education met Monday night.

Hired as the county school health nurse was Miss Dorothy Brdar of Fairview, who succeeds Mrs. Olive Factor. Miss Patricia Carothers was employed as a full time clerk in the Fairview school to begin duties Wednesday.

It was announced a special meeting will be held Thursday night at 8 in the Fairview school to open bids for oil and furniture for schools.

Frank Meredith, supervising principal, pointed out that due to an increase in the market value of the school plant, state aid to the district will decrease more than $7,000.

A report was given on the progress of construction of the new Ray W. Snyder school by Walter Zischkau, chairman of the building and grounds committee.

Western Beaver County schools will convene for the 1959-60 school term on Sept. 2, it was announced. The next board meeting was set for Sept. 8. Payment of $27,178.18 in bills was ordered. James P. McClaskey, president, presided.

Toledo

Colorful patio tiles were used to brighten the scene and the sidewalks along the malls were painted in such shades as dark brown, brick red and loganberry.

The background of the malls can be traced back to many plans over many years to brighten up downtown Toledo. But the idea caught on early this year when six teams from the Toledo chapter of the American Institute of Architects began putting on paper their thoughts on how the city of 360,000 could get a face lift.

The cost of such a revamping would be tremendous and it appeared at first that any action would be far off in the future.

Then Ned Skeldon, head of the Board of Lucas County Commissioners, came up with a bold suggestion:

Instead of letting the plan gather dust, why not give the mall feature of the plans an immediate trial?

City Council endorsed the idea and appropriated $15,000 for the project. Skeldon wanted the county to contribute $10,000, but the Ohio attorney general held that would be illegal.

After the 45-day trial, mall proponents will appraise the value of the downtown center. If it has been a success, if the shopping center indicates a continued trend toward downtown stores, city and county officials will begin planning for a permanent and more elaborate mall system.

An exhibit in one of the malls depicts Toledo's hopes for the future. It is a 67-square-foot model showing downtown Toledo as the architects would like to see it.

The drab river front is converted into a park traversed by an expressway. A Skid Row section has been redeveloped with middle income and luxury apartments. Many existing buildings have been renovated. There is a new auditorium and many other features.

These of course still are dreams. But, with its trial malls, Toledo now has a foot in Dreamland.

year term on the Southern Local Board of Education.

The Southern Local district will elect an entirely new board this year with three being elected to serve for four years and two elected for two-year terms. However, no aspirants have filed for the short terms, O'Hanlon said.

Three candidates for the Fairfield-Waterford Board of Education also filed for re-election. They are Wayne Rupert, Harold Gray and Beulah Converse. Mrs. Converse is board president, Rupert is vice president and Gray a member.

The other new candidates include George R. Stuckey, trustee of Center Township; J. Neil McIntosh, clerk of St. Clair Township; William J. Conrad, trustee of Madison Township; John W. Jackson, constable of St. Clair Township; Forrest Thompson, trustee of Franklin Township; Joseph K. Harding, trustee of Fairfield Township; R. R. Barber, clerk of Butler; William E. Hiscox, constable of Center; Roy N. Pointer, constable of Hanover Township; Robert E. McPherson, trustee of Yellow Creek Township, and Forrest Young, constable of Franklin Township.

An initiative ordinance seeking a $40 monthly salary increase for members of the Salem police department also was certified to the board.

City Auditor Helen R. Coyne certified the petitions contained 851 valid signatures and also transmitted a copy of the proposed ordinance.

Because the proposed ordinance does not declare policemen will receive salary increase of $40 a month, the ballot will not include the figure, O'Hanlon said.

The ballot probably will be extremely long because of the length of the ordinance submitted by the city, O'Hanlon said. The board must run either the full text of the ordinance on the ballot or use a summary and post the full text in each polling place, he explained.

The ordinance merely proposes that an amendment to two present ordinances be adopted. It lists the salaries in various classes and hourly rates for substitute patrolmen and school patrol.

If approved, the salaries would range from $576 a month for the police chief to $404 for beginning patrolmen. Rank-and-file officers would receive $430 for the second year and $456 after two years' continuous service.

Drifting Car Blamed For Traffic Collision

A drifting auto was blamed for a traffic mishap Monday night on St. Clair Ave., police reported.

Dorothy L. Robbins, 40, of 1600 Etruria St. told police she was traveling north in St. Clair Ave. near Grant St. when a car parked on the east side of the street drifted across to the west side and then back across the road, striking her car.

Meanwhile, two motorists involved in an accident Sunday morning reported the mishap Monday afternoon, police said.

Fred Smith, 65 of 632 Inez Ave. told police he was pulling from a parking space on Minerva St. Sunday morning when a car operated by Bill Banger, 154 Fawcett St., turned off Walnut St. and struck the left side of his auto.

Shooting Case Suspect Bound

A Steubenville man was bound over to the Columbiana County Grand Jury Monday afternoon in Municipal Court on a charge of shooting with intent to kill a salesman for a beer distributing firm.

Pete Panos was held under a $1,000 bond by Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw following a hearing on the charge filed by John Arena of Shadyside Ave., a salesman for the Iron City Distributing Co.

Panos pleaded not guilty when arraigned but Judge Brokaw ruled sufficient evidence was introduced to hold him for Grand Jury action.

Panos, who also is employed at the distributing firm, posted a $1,000 cash bond last night to gain his release from jail.

The alleged attempt to shoot Arena took place Thursday morning but police weren't advised until that night, Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi said.

The chief said Arena gave no reason for the shooting but indicated there had been some "horseplay" previously.

Arena told the chief Panos emptied his gun at him and he turned over one of the slugs which he said he dug out of a wall at the beer distributing firm's headquarters at 10 Market St.

The gun hasn't been located, Chief Radeschi said, but police were given a snub-nosed .38-caliber revolver which Arena said he took away from Panos previously.

Sportsmen Review Activities Of Summer

A review of the summer program of the Chester-Newell Farmers' and Sportsmen's Club was held at a meeting Monday night at the clubhouse at Gas Valley.

Lack of a quorum prevented action on any business. Paul Johnson, president, reported the interior of the clubhouse has been painted.

A new mowing machine has been used by members to clear paths over the club grounds. Hay and oats have been cut by a neighborhood farmer, with the club's share used for wildlife feed.

The next meeting will be scheduled later, Johnston said.

Peddler's Problem

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — After parents complained, an ordinance was passed requiring motorized ice cream salesmen to be off the streets from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. and 9 p. m. to 10 a. m. The jingle-playing peddlers, the parents said, were keeping their children awake.

Trustees Told Of Trash Drive

St. Clair Township's crackdown on roadside trash dumpers has resulted in two arrests, Constable John Jackson reported at a meeting of the trustees Monday night.

Jackson said he cited Fred Crabtree of St. Clair Ave. and John Watson of R. D. 2 for illegal dumping of trash along the Smiths Ferry-Calcutta Rd., and both men were fined $25 and costs by County Judge Earl Spalding at East Palestine.

The constable said John Karl Johnson of Snow Hill, Newell, was fined $10 and costs for failure to yield the right-of-way after he was cited in Calcutta at the intersections of Routes 430 and 428.

The trustees approved patching of holes in a blacktop street at Fredericktown and in Faulk Dr. and agreed to have Lyle St. graded following requests from residents.

A plat of a section of property of Homer Hoffman near Route 267 by the Liverpool Township line was approved.

A delegation from the Cannons Mills Rd. complained about lack of driveway drains or faulty ones at certain houses along the road and the trustees agreed to survey the condition at the site Thursday night at 8.

His Request Denied

Saw Injures East End Man

An East End man injured on a saw and a LaCroft girl burned on an iron were treated at City Hospital Monday, along with a woman and four youngsters injured in other mishaps.

Paul Redmond, 51, of 1710 Pennsylvania Ave. suffered a partial amputation of the left thumb on a table saw. He was treated at 8:20 p. m.

Sherry Lynn Smith, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith of 5th Ave., LaCroft, received second degree burns of the right hand on a steam iron.

Mrs. Ruth Osbourn of LaCroft was treated last night for a laceration of the palm of the right hand suffered while washing dishes.

In a fall on the sidewalk, Gary Davis, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Davis of Fisher Ave., received a cut of the eyebrow.

Robert Poole, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Poole of Westfield, was treated for a cut of the left heel suffered when he stepped on a sharp object.

David Fey, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fey of Glenmoor, received a cut of a finger on a knife at home.

Fred Brown, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown of Calcutta, was treated for a laceration of the right hand received on a glass at home.

In reply to the superintendent's query, a letter from Joseph R. Ralston, an assistant in Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy's office, said:

"The powers and duties of the attorney general are fixed by statute, and he is thereby limited to advising state officers, boards, commissions, bureaus and the county prosecuting attorneys in controversies in which the state is or may be a party. It would, therefore, be inappropriate for this office to take jurisdiction of your question and advise you officially thereon.

"Section 3313.35 Revised Code provides that the prosecuting attorney shall be the adviser to all school boards except city boards of education where the city solicitor shall be the adviser."

Although the opinion has been delayed for two weeks, leaving just a month before the new school term starts when the new policy takes effect, the board voted to file the letter and refer its question to the solicitor.

James Lowe, who voted against passage of a resolution carrying out provisions of the new state law at the last meeting, again attacked the legislation after a motion was made by James B. Moss to file the letter and contact Cooper for an opinion.

Lowe remarked, "I'll second the motion so it won't fail" and then commented, "We would be doing well to impose the same regulations as before until we are prevented by the state. It's very poor legislation. There was no foresight used.

"At the next meeting when the full board can attend, I am going to try to see what I can do about carrying out the former policy."

Moss said, "It may be weak-kneed but we have no means of correcting the state. I don't like it, but if its the law we have to abide by it."

Lowe said he believes the state should allow the board to follow the same procedure it has in the past. "We all know this is wrong."

Board members said they understand the new law will be discussed at the next physicians' meeting.

Only Moss, Lowe and Leo C. Lawrence, president, attended the meeting. C. Walter Ashbaugh was out of town and Samuel W. Brown is on Army Reserve duty.

Salem Fruit Growers Elect 3 As Directors

LISBON — Three Salem area men, R. C. Lamb and John Kalafus of R. D. 5 and Richard Sitler of R. D. 3, were elected to the Board of Directors for three-year terms, at the annual meeting of the Salem Fruit Growers Association Monday at Greenford High School. Other board members are A. A. Less and Joe Less of R. D. 5, Raymond Knopt of R. D. 3, George Wilms and Charles Mattevi, all of Salem, and Frank Papania of New Waterford.

Henry Ross of Salem, manager of the storage plant at Greenford, gave the yearly report. Joe Less read the report. A. A. Less, president, and Leonard Hively of Columbiana gave the financial report.

J. C. Hedge of Canfield, retired Mahoning County extension agent, gave the invocation and also spoke briefly as did the present agent, William Phillip, and Columbiana County Agent Floyd Lower. Eighty attended.

Five Held At Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Five men captured Saturday night by police who said they were holding up the Manchester Road Jewelry Store are being held under $50,000 bonds each. Held on open charges in Summit County jail are Joseph Presa, 40, of Akron; George Styranko, 35, of Middleburg Heights; and three Cleveland men, Benedeto Contorno, 20, Henry G. Dzirkowski, 43, and Paul Dewey, 44. Bonds were set in court Monday, with the cases continued to Friday.

2 Suits Ask $77,750 For Highway Mishap

LISBON — Suits asking total damages of $77,750 were filed in Common Pleas Court Monday as the aftermath of a traffic accident March 18.

John Shaffer of R. D. 5 asks $51,450 and Louis Barronzzi of Sunset Dr. asks $26,300 from C. F. Waite, Inc., of Akron as defendant in both suits.

Barronzzi, who operates a gas station in Lisbon, had taken gas to Shaffer, when his car ran out of fuel. Both cars were parked on Route 45 when a truck belonging to the Akron Company and driven by Charles Davis, struck the rear of Barronzzi's car, pushing it into the Shaffer car and injuring both drivers.

Chester VFW Approves New Year's Orchestra

The contract was signed with Dick Golden of East Liverpool.

Earl Pittenger, commander, reported on the Hancock County conservation camp at Tomlinson Run State Park to which the post sponsored four boys and a girl in July.

The next meeting will be Sept. 21.

Board Hires School Nurse

A school nurse and a clerk for a county school were employed when the Western Beaver County Board of Education met Monday night.

Hired as the county school health nurse was Miss Dorothy Brdar of Fairview, who succeeds Mrs. Olive Factor. Miss Patricia Carothers was employed as a full time clerk in the Fairview school to begin duties Wednesday.

It was announced a special meeting will be held Thursday night at 8 in the Fairview school to open bids for oil and furniture for schools.

Frank Meredith, supervising principal, pointed out that due to an increase in the market value of the school plant, state aid to the district will decrease more than $7,000.

A report was given on the progress of construction of the new Ray W. Snyder school by Walter Zischkau, chairman of the building and grounds committee.

Western Beaver County schools will convene for the 1959-60 school term on Sept. 2, it was announced. The next board meeting was set for Sept. 8. Payment of $27,178.18 in bills was ordered. James P. McClaskey, president, presided.

Toledo

Colorful patio tiles were used to brighten the scene and the sidewalks along the malls were painted in such shades as dark brown, brick red and loganberry.

The background of the malls can be traced back to many plans over many years to brighten up downtown Toledo. But the idea caught on early this year when six teams from the Toledo chapter of the American Institute of Architects began putting on paper their thoughts on how the city of 360,000 could get a face lift.

The cost of such a revamping would be tremendous and it appeared at first that any action would be far off in the future.

Then Ned Skeldon, head of the Board of Lucas County Commissioners, came up with a bold suggestion:

Instead of letting the plan gather dust, why not give the mall feature of the plans an immediate trial?

City Council endorsed the idea and appropriated $15,000 for the project. Skeldon wanted the county to contribute $10,000, but the Ohio attorney general held that would be illegal.

After the 45-day trial, mall proponents will appraise the value of the downtown center. If it has been a success, if the shopping center indicates a continued trend toward downtown stores, city and county officials will begin planning for a permanent and more elaborate mall system.

An exhibit in one of the malls depicts Toledo's hopes for the future. It is a 67-square-foot model showing downtown Toledo as the architects would like to see it.

The drab river front is converted into a park traversed by an expressway. A Skid Row section has been redeveloped with middle income and luxury apartments. Many existing buildings have been renovated. There is a new auditorium and many other features.

These of course still are dreams. But, with its trial malls, Toledo now has a foot in Dreamland.

year term on the Southern Local Board of Education.

The Southern Local district will elect an entirely new board this year with three being elected to serve for four years and two elected for two-year terms. However, no aspirants have filed for the short terms, O'Hanlon said.

Three candidates for the Fairfield-Waterford Board of Education also filed for re-election. They are Wayne Rupert, Harold Gray and Beulah Converse. Mrs. Converse is board president, Rupert is vice president and Gray a member.

The other new candidates include George R. Stuckey, trustee of Center Township; J. Neil McIntosh, clerk of St. Clair Township; William J. Conrad, trustee of Madison Township; John W. Jackson, constable of St. Clair Township; Forrest Thompson, trustee of Franklin Township; Joseph K. Harding, trustee of Fairfield Township; R. R. Barber, clerk of Butler; William E. Hiscox, constable of Center; Roy N. Pointer, constable of Hanover Township; Robert E. McPherson, trustee of Yellow Creek Township, and Forrest Young, constable of Franklin Township.

An initiative ordinance seeking a $40 monthly salary increase for members of the Salem police department also was certified to the board.

City Auditor Helen R. Coyne certified the petitions contained 851 valid signatures and also transmitted a copy of the proposed ordinance.

Because the proposed ordinance does not declare policemen will receive salary increase of $40 a month, the ballot will not include the figure, O'Hanlon said.

The ballot probably will be extremely long because of the length of the ordinance submitted by the city, O'Hanlon said. The board must run either the full text of the ordinance on the ballot or use a summary and post the full text in each polling place, he explained.

The ordinance merely proposes that an amendment to two present ordinances be adopted. It lists the salaries in various classes and hourly rates for substitute patrolmen and school patrol.

If approved, the salaries would range from $576 a month for the police chief to $404 for beginning patrolmen. Rank-and-file officers would receive $430 for the second year and $456 after two years' continuous service.

Drifting Car Blamed For Traffic Collision

A drifting auto was blamed for a traffic mishap Monday night on St. Clair Ave., police reported.

Dorothy L. Robbins, 40, of 1600 Etruria St. told police she was traveling north in St. Clair Ave. near Grant St. when a car parked on the east side of the street drifted across to the west side and then back across the road, striking her car.

Meanwhile, two motorists involved in an accident Sunday morning reported the mishap Monday afternoon, police said.

Fred Smith, 65 of 632 Inez Ave. told police he was pulling from a parking space on Minerva St. Sunday morning when a car operated by Bill Banger, 154 Fawcett St., turned off Walnut St. and struck the left side of his auto.

Shooting Case Suspect Bound

A Steubenville man was bound over to the Columbiana County Grand Jury Monday afternoon in Municipal Court on a charge of shooting with intent to kill a salesman for a beer distributing firm.

Pete Panos was held under a $1,000 bond by Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw following a hearing on the charge filed by John Arena of Shadyside Ave., a salesman for the Iron City Distributing Co.

Panos pleaded not guilty when arraigned but Judge Brokaw ruled sufficient evidence was introduced to hold him for Grand Jury action.

Panos, who also is employed at the distributing firm, posted a $1,000 cash bond last night to gain his release from jail.

The alleged attempt to shoot Arena took place Thursday morning but police weren't advised until that night, Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi said.

The chief said Arena gave no reason for the shooting but indicated there had been some "horseplay" previously.

Arena told the chief Panos emptied his gun at him and he turned over one of the slugs which he said he dug out of a wall at the beer distributing firm's headquarters at 10 Market St.

The gun hasn't been located, Chief Radeschi said, but police were given a snub-nosed .38-caliber revolver which Arena said he took away from Panos previously.

Sportsmen Review Activities Of Summer

A review of the summer program of the Chester-Newell Farmers' and Sportsmen's Club was held at a meeting Monday night at the clubhouse at Gas Valley.

Lack of a quorum prevented action on any business. Paul Johnson, president, reported the interior of the clubhouse has been painted.

A new mowing machine has been used by members to clear paths over the club grounds. Hay and oats have been cut by a neighborhood farmer, with the club's share used for wildlife feed.

The next meeting will be scheduled later, Johnston said.

Peddler's Problem

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — After parents complained, an ordinance was passed requiring motorized ice cream salesmen to be off the streets from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. and 9 p. m. to 10 a. m. The jingle-playing peddlers, the parents said, were keeping their children awake.

Trustees Told Of Trash Drive

St. Clair Township's crackdown on roadside trash dumpers has resulted in two arrests, Constable John Jackson reported at a meeting of the trustees Monday night.

Jackson said he cited Fred Crabtree of St. Clair Ave. and John Watson of R. D. 2 for illegal dumping of trash along the Smiths Ferry-Calcutta Rd., and both men were fined $25 and costs by County Judge Earl Spalding at East Palestine.

The constable said John Karl Johnson of Snow Hill, Newell, was fined $10 and costs for failure to yield the right-of-way after he was cited in Calcutta at the intersections of Routes 430 and 428.

The trustees approved patching of holes in a blacktop street at Fredericktown and in Faulk Dr. and agreed to have Lyle St. graded following requests from residents.

A plat of a section of property of Homer Hoffman near Route 267 by the Liverpool Township line was approved.

Too Dangerous A Dream

Bitter-enders carping against the exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and Premier Khruschev are going to have a bad time.

They never dreamed they would live to see the time when it would seem natural and desirable for both the president and the vice president of the United States to be exchanging official visits with their counterparts in the Soviet Union.

They never dreamed they would be witnesses to a warming of relations in the "cold war" whose animosities and fears have been one of the principal motivations of the troubled postwar era.

From their point of view, any improvement in relations with the top figures of the Soviet Union will have to be sought at the expense of principle.

They are aware of no expediencies that would justify the slightest surrender of their inflexible view that the Soviet Union must be held at arm's length; that there simply is no safe way to do business with a Communist.

These are the people who had fits when Deputy Premier Mikoyan came here. They made their displeasure obvious when Deputy Premier Kozlov came here. They disapproved of Vice President Nixon's visit to Russia. They will go to any lengths to make it obvious they disapprove of Premier Khrushchev.

They will make themselves ridiculous. But they will not be entirely wrong.

AMERICANS who have a dream of rapprochement with the Soviet Union are capable of making fools of themselves. They are capable of sacrificing the dignity that is America's most precious asset.

They are capable, moreover, of dreaming, as Franklin Roosevelt once dreamed, that they can charm the No. 1 Communist into a mood of sweet surrender; Mr. Roosevelt is supposed to have said once that he would "housebreak" Josef Stalin.

That is too dangerous a dream for any American to have about the Communist conspiracy, dedicated now, as it always has been, to the destruction of everything it cannot dominate.

Communism is not only economics but religion to its dedicated followers. In the 20th century world there is nothing that can match it in discipline and intensity — and the premier of Communist Russia is its foremost advocate.

The White House is taking a calculated risk in an effort to ease some of the tensions of the cold war. It is gambling on the probability that most of the American people will understand that the way to deal with the top Communists is to judge them by what they do, never by what they say.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER and his advisers are betting on the good sense of their countrymen to receive Premier Khrushchev with dignity, remembering that he is the head of a great nation whose people are friendly to them but whose government has yet to prove by a single overt act that it, too, would like to be friendly.

There should be no illusions about "housebreaking" Nikita Khrushchev.

He did not get to be Russia's No. 1 Communist by being susceptible to people who want to train him to be anything but what he is — the tough boss of the toughest international conspiracy of the 20th century.

Story Of Steven And Anne Marie

"It's the nicest story of the year so far," said the lady who had been reading about the marrying plans of Steven Rockefeller and Anne Marie Rasmussen of Kristiansand, Norway.

In view of the fact the year is wearing out in a hurry, that covered a quantity of stories, but it was difficult to think of any to beat the warm story of a young American who fell in love with the Norwegian girl who had come to this country as an exchange student and finally went to Norway to claim her.

Geneva or the steel negotiations wouldn't beat it. It wouldn't be beaten by anything that had happened in Washington or at Cape Canaveral, or any of the worry-warting stories about nuclear fallout, or the job his political opponents did on Lewis Strauss in the U.S. Senate.

Nor would it be beaten by equal time for obscure candidates, ship collisions, bloodshed in Latin America, the mouthings of Gov. Faubus, the peregrinations of visiting Russians and scandals in high places. It wouldn't even be beaten by the collapse of the New York Yankees in time to bring up American League attendance figures and thereby save a quantity of baseball bacon.

In all probability, the lady is indisputably right. Once in a blue moon a nice story comes along that makes people feel good in behalf of the principals concerned, with no terror, no sorrow, no misgivings, no carping, no sniffing and no second-guessing.

Until something better comes along, the story of Steven Rockefeller's decision to make a beeline to Kristiansand as soon as his military hitch was up in Europe to put the clincher on his plan to marry the girl who once had worked for his family in New York is tops.

It made millions feel happy, and there's still no law against that.

They're Needed

The announcement from the Ohio Highway Department that it has ordered two electronically-controlled machines for marking of roadways is good news.

As we have said before, clearly-marked dividing lines and edge lines become more important daily in the constant war against traffic fatalities.

Highway Director E. S. Preston says plans call for eventual placing of a unit in each of the department's 12 divisions.

May Division 11 — with headquarters at New Philadelphia — which serves Columbiana and six others counties, be among the first to receive one of the machines.

Certainly, because of the frequent fog, no one needs proper highway markings more than those communities in the river areas.

The Once Over

"Castro visited de luxe Havana hotel with a group of armed guards and had a snack in the kitchen," says a news item.

This was surely one case where the chef didn't say, "You'll have to wait 45 minutes" or where it was necessary to ask for more gravy. Chefs are traditionally independent and against being rushed but here was a setup where "What's cooking?" got the soft answer, "Never mind; just ask for anything you desire."

We wonder how Castro found the potato situation. It is our experience that French fried and boiled spuds are too often the rule, with only a frigid stare if we ask for hashed-browned, creamed, mashed, etc.

Could Castro, carrying only one gun in his holster, get hash-brown potatoes? Could he obtain mashed potatoes without mentioning Morro Castle prison?

Our culinary expert insists that with armed guards any customer can get potatoes in any style desired at home or abroad. He is not so sure about ordering a sirloin medium rare and getting it that way.

"A beard helps in some restaurants but it is apt to take a uniform and firearms," he said.

THERE ARE RUMORS an assistant chef at the Havana hotel, not recognizing Castro, put only the customary four shrimp in a shrimp cocktail for the revolutionary leader and was summarily executed.

Our notion is that no matter what was on the fire, the word that Castro was on premises stopped everything, even the "chef's special" for the day.

"Whip up his favorite meal!" we think the chef cried. "What is it?" his cooks asked. "Start guessing," was the reply, "and you'd BETTER GUESS RIGHT."

(P.S.: The party didn't even have to ask twice for bread and butter.)

No Man For Just A Mild Flirtation

White Africans Ready For Trouble

By Victor Riesel

MITAHATO, Kenya

There is positive reason, indeed, to believe that the word "Cyprus" is the secret code of many angry, educated Africans — virtually all of them bright men of some profession. They are impatient. They will cut loose with sudden death, explosions and burnings in the kind of guerilla war which beat the British back on the Island of Cyprus.

Victor Riesel

These revolutionists will be the detribilized literate Africans of the big cities. They will war on the whites and the African loyalists. To prevent the possible slaughter of isolated tribesmen, the government for some time has been "village-izing" Kikuyus into towns such as this one in the Central province, which is still under emergency rule.

"Village-ization" has never been reported back home. It is the tactic of moving isolated or separated Kikuyus from lonely thatched huts out in the veldt, where some live alone and others live in batches in three or four branch-covered mud homes.

THE TRIBESMEN are brought into a village such as this one, almost reminiscent of our early stockade towns. Then the group can protect itself or can easily be defended by the army.

Meanwhile, back in Nairobi the Europeans have organized a secret group. They expect sabotage, massive passive resistance or a general strike which could paralyze the colony — considered a vital base from which any war with the Russians must be fought.

If violence does hit Nairobi as it did Cyprus, the military will have to handle that. The secret civilian group, a model for the rest of white Africa, is prepared to move in its men and women fold and keep all vital services operating.

On "the shelf" in a special government office is the year-old maste: plan for running railroads, operating hospitals, delivering mail, moving essential foodstuff, maintaining communications and keeping water supplies pure — if the hundreds of thousands of African workers just don't show up for work some morning.

The white community has its signals, too. If word is flashed, key men will leave their offices and head for railroads, docks and trucks. These men are executives who haven't been out in the field or in plant operations for years.

AT THE SAME TIME the East African Women's League will start rolling. It has lists of its own specialists. These women will be notified to head for the Post Office, the central telephone switchboards, the radio stations, telegraph points and hospitals.

About a year ago, and once or twice more recently, leaders of the East African Women's League split into groups and began canvassing the homes in each neighborhood. They asked housewives if they could hold out for a week in the event of a sudden African stay-away-from-the-job movement

The women were adivsed to stock up on food. Reports reveal that such stocks are now on hand. Other women were asked if they could organize car pools and drive men into work if the buses were struck or the fuel supplies ran out and petrol had to be rationed.

The Kenyans hope the showdown never will come. They believe it could touch off a chain reaction which could either paralyze the vast eastern section of Africa or provoke bloody rioting again.

And if you want to know how huge this area is, look at a map. From the "nearby" eastern horn to the westernmost point, Africa is as wide as it is long — and East Africa is the bulk of it.

To prevent such a holocaust, the Kenyans are counting on the Kikuyu tribe, strangely enough. It was from these 1,200,000 people that the Mau Mau sprang some seven years ago.

INFORMED KENYANS say they have reasons for counting the Kikuyu as their friends now. It is known that some four or five months ago, the leaders of the Kenya Federation of Labor discussed calling a series of legitimate rolling strikes.

These would have been the garden variety of stoppages at one factory or dock or railhead after another. Kikuyu labor officials called their own caucus. They decided to send along word quietly to the Kenya Federation of Labor high command that the Kikuyu tribe had suffered enough in the Mau Mau "emergency." Now they wanted peace. There were no strikes.

It's a strange country. A beautiful land. Yet most of its communities are less than 50 years old. Despite its airports, "skyscrapers" and art exhibits Kenya gives you the feeling its people live in ancient frontier towns.

The Methodical Nixon

By Raymond Moley

It will probably be inevitable that later reflections and public comment on Vice President Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union will deal with its effect on Nixon's political future rather than on any diplomatic results.

Nixon accepted the assignment fully realizing that it might end in a monumental flop. It is possible that the more cautious of his political friends advised him to skip it on the ground that it was too great a risk to his popularity and reputation. Nevertheless, he decided to go, for a number of motives which his political enemies will not accept but which were in keeping with his character and with a number of important decisions which he has made in the past.

AMONG THOSE motives was a conviction that international tensions are so great that no risk should be avoided if there is a chance to accomplish something in the cause of peace.

Another is that Nixon had seen enough of formal diplomacy to believe that a less stilted approach would be likely to be successful. This conviction was strengthened as he assayed the "cowboy" methods of the Russians, especially of Khrushchev.

Long practice in the rough and ready business of politics gave him confidence that he could play a creditable role in free-hitting exchanges. This impression was confirmed in his rollicking "day at the fair" with the Soviet boss.

Finally, the President felt that he should go and that is always decisive with Nixon.

But beneath such calculations, there has always been a strong fatalism in the Nixon character. As Earl Mazo points out over and over in his book on Nixon, the vice president realizes keenly that "time and chance" govern most political events. He actually cited the consuming eagerness of men like Henry Clay, Robert Taft and even Harold Stassen to be president as examples of frustration.

He realizes that such intensity as consumed Captain Ahab in his determination to meet the Great White Whale ultimately destroyed the hunter.

Perhaps Shakespeare indicated this state of mind best: "If it be now, 'tis not to come; if it be not to come, it will be now; if it be not now, yet it will come: the readiness is all."

The word "readiness" is another key to Nixon's method. His acceptance of a personal political risk is no casual gamble. As president, no one would need to fear that caprice would govern his decisions. For no man in high office has ever made more meticulous preparation for every job he has ever undertaken.

Weeks were spent in preparing for this Nixon trip. In the last days the speech memorandum prepared for him at the State Department for opening the American Exhibition was not satisfactory to him and he personally wrote a draft of his own.

FOR EVERY TRIP abroad which he has undertaken for the President he has briefed himself with extreme care on the characteristics and problems of the countries to be visited.

After such careful appraisal, he has not hesitated to take the line of what he conceived to be his duty.

In the early stages of the Hiss case almost everyone, including the members of his own un-American Activities Committee, believed that Hiss could not be proved guilty and that an effort to do so would be a failure. But a firm conviction that it was a matter that simply had to be resolved, one way or another, drove him to a detailed investigation which finally uncovered the truth.

His belief is that without a fighting, united Republican party, no nomination will be worth having in 1960. The event will be in the hands of Providence and the times. But there will be no lack of readiness.

How High Is Up?

By James Marlow

Meetings To Get Ike, Khrush Off The Hook

WASHINGTON

How high is up? Or when is a summit conference not a summit conference?

No matter what they're called — and they are not being called summit conferences — the coming meetings between President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev get both men off a hook, for a while, anyway.

Yet, as of now, Khrushchev is away ahead on points in his duel with Eisenhower over Berlin where he precipitated a crisis which he has never let subside. He knows, and Eisenhower knows, he has the United States on a tough spot.

As a result of all he has done, he is getting exactly what he wanted: a personal meeting with Eisenhower.

It seems safe to say that if Khrushchev hadn't caused the Berlin crisis, and refused to budge an inch, Eisenhower wouldn't be asking him to Washington in September.

The dictionary describes a summit as the highest point. Since Eisenhower and Khrushchev are the top men in their governments, no meeting between Americans and Russians could be any more of a summit than this one.

Still Eisenhower doesn't call Khrushchev's visit here and his later visit with him in Moscow a summit meeting. He says they will have "informal talks...which will afford an opportunity for an exchange of views about problems of mutual interest."

Actually, the two men can reach understandings on their problems without signing formal papers. That could be done later — at a meeting officially billed as the summit — with Britain and France sitting in.

Whatever Eisenhower works out with Khrushchev will probably be acceptable to the Allies. He's making it plain he won't do anything behind their backs.

The Western alliance might have broken up if Eisenhower had let the Russians shut off Western access to West Berlin, as they had threatened to do, indirectly. So he couldn't afford to back down. Yet, if he called Khrushchev's hand and tried to run a blockade, the shooting might start.

For both men this ugly dilemma may be solved in their talks. If not, at least the talks will have postponed the showdown for some months.

Eisenhower is saved from embarrassment in another way, since the meetings with Khrushchev will not bear the title of summit.

He had repeatedly refused to meet the Soviet leader at the summit unless the foreign ministers at Geneva made some progress. Since they haven't, he couldn't very well agree to a "summit" meeting with Khrushchev without appearing to cave in.

This way, since the talks will be "informal," that dilemma is removed.

If the West didn't get its troops out of Berlin, Khrushchev threatened to let the East German Communists control the road and routes through which the West sends supplies to West Berlin.

If they shut off the routes and the West tried to force its way through, Moscow promised to go to the help of the East Germans. But couldn't the allies send in supplies with an airlift, as President Truman had done in smashing Stalin's Berlin blockade in 1948?

Eisenhower at a White House dinner and in news conferences has made it plain the West's position is potentially far worse than what developed in 1948. Red jamming of Western radar would make a mass airlift very difficult. The Reds didn't interfere with the air transport in 1948.

Farm Bill Buried

By Robert E. Lee

Congressional Democrats have now abandoned hope for writing any major new farm legislation before the 1960 elections.

And, although President Eisenhower is planning a national appeal for a change in the basic law which experts in both parties agree isn't working well, Republicans are darkly pessimistic about the chances of doing anything about it.

Democrats with farm belt constituencies are prepared to go to the electorate next year with a campaign blaming Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson for failing the farmers. Republicans will claim that previous Democratic administrations bequeathed them an unworkable program to administer.

However, there is some question whether agriculture will be a major issue in 1960. The political heat from the farm belt for higher price supports has been almost dissipated. Meanwhile, big city Democrats, on the spot for years, now almost openly disavow the federal subsidies in the form of rigid price supports promised by their campaign platforms of 1952 and 1956. They feel the heat from consumers demanding lower food prices regardless of the farmers' well-being.

THIS WASN'T the way Democratic farm spokesmen had it figured when Congress convened in January. They thought their party's big majorities in the House and Senate gave them a mandate — and an opportunity — to do something about Benson's drive to reduce price supports on basic crops and give the farmers more freedom to plant as they please but with lower guaranteed prices.

The Senate Agriculture Committee was to provide the stage for the Democratic overhaul of the price support program. Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas worked out the strategy with two committee members, Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Herman Talmadge of Georgia.

Humphrey and Talmadge were to compromise the often - conflicting views of producers of various crops and of the major agricultural lobbies. The heart of their plan was revival of what was known in the Truman administration as the Brannan Plan, embodying strict production controls with direct payments to farmers to equalize the difference between the parity formula value of particular crops and their market value.

The two senators, meeting with technical specialists throughout February, "traded" commodities to be included in the program until almost everything grown was included: Wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco, peanuts, dairy products, hogs, eggs, feed grains. At this point the negotiations broke down. The Humphrey - Talmadge plan is now dead for all practical purposes.

Humphrey, however, as a candidate for the presidential nomination and longtime champion of federal aid for small farmers, has drafted his own version of the sweeping proposal and may introduce it soon.

WHAT HAPPENED to the Democrats' winter enthusiasm?

For one thing, Talmadge said both he and Humphrey would be laughed out of the Senate if they offered the hodge - podge that was emerging from their conversations.

For another, the wide divergence of views held by various — and often competing — commodity groups gave little evidence of support from anything like a cohesive "farm bloc." Many of the farmers' best friends in Congress say the farmers themselves don't know what they want.

Moreover, Congressional Democrats were struck down early in the session in the first test of their strength to ram through agricultural legislation. This occurred on a purely political effort to strip Benson of some of his authority over the Rural Electrification Administration.

This move, sponsored by Humphrey, was regarded as the least controversial within the party of any legislation bearing on farm problems. Virtually all commodity groups backed it; those that didn't stayed in the background.

The bill passed both houses with large majorities but the President vetoed it. The Senate overrode the veto but it was sustained in the House. This was the indicator for the more realistic Democratic farm spokesmen in Congress. They knew they were licked.

The prevailing view among the Democrats now is to ride with what they call the "Eisenhower - Benson" Program, taking pot shots at it along the way to November, 1960. They reason that even if it were possible to put across a wholly new Democratic farm rogram, it would reap no political benefits. On the contrary, it would fix responsibility for any further farm failures on them.

They are satisfied now to live with a "Republican" farm program which is extremely costly and an administrative monstrosity; indeed, they prefer it to a program of their own which might not work either.

"Singing on TV and for music houses. College has agreed to give me a mandolin instead of a diploma. My voice is terrible and I don't cut my hair often. So how can I lose?"

"Are you working your way through college?"

"I'm negotiating with a business corporation. We're getting together on wages and hours but it may take months before we can agree on holidays, pensions and fringe benefits."

No Man For Just A Mild Flirtation

White Africans Ready For Trouble

By Victor Riesel

MITAHATO, Kenya

There is positive reason, indeed, to believe that the word "Cyprus" is the secret code of many angry, educated Africans — virtually all of them bright men of some profession. They are impatient. They will cut loose with sudden death, explosions and burnings in the kind of guerilla war which beat the British back on the Island of Cyprus.

Victor Riesel

These revolutionists will be the detribilized literate Africans of the big cities. They will war on the whites and the African loyalists. To prevent the possible slaughter of isolated tribesmen, the government for some time has been "village-izing" Kikuyus into towns such as this one in the Central province, which is still under emergency rule.

"Village-ization" has never been reported back home. It is the tactic of moving isolated or separated Kikuyus from lonely thatched huts out in the veldt, where some live alone and others live in batches in three or four branch-covered mud homes.

THE TRIBESMEN are brought into a village such as this one, almost reminiscent of our early stockade towns. Then the group can protect itself or can easily be defended by the army.

Meanwhile, back in Nairobi the Europeans have organized a secret group. They expect sabotage, massive passive resistance or a general strike which could paralyze the colony — considered a vital base from which any war with the Russians must be fought.

If violence does hit Nairobi as it did Cyprus, the military will have to handle that. The secret civilian group, a model for the rest of white Africa, is prepared to move in its men and women fold and keep all vital services operating.

On "the shelf" in a special government office is the year-old maste: plan for running railroads, operating hospitals, delivering mail, moving essential foodstuff, maintaining communications and keeping water supplies pure — if the hundreds of thousands of African workers just don't show up for work some morning.

The white community has its signals, too. If word is flashed, key men will leave their offices and head for railroads, docks and trucks. These men are executives who haven't been out in the field or in plant operations for years.

AT THE SAME TIME the East African Women's League will start rolling. It has lists of its own specialists. These women will be notified to head for the Post Office, the central telephone switchboards, the radio stations, telegraph points and hospitals.

About a year ago, and once or twice more recently, leaders of the East African Women's League split into groups and began canvassing the homes in each neighborhood. They asked housewives if they could hold out for a week in the event of a sudden African stay-away-from-the-job movement

The women were adivsed to stock up on food. Reports reveal that such stocks are now on hand. Other women were asked if they could organize car pools and drive men into work if the buses were struck or the fuel supplies ran out and petrol had to be rationed.

The Kenyans hope the showdown never will come. They believe it could touch off a chain reaction which could either paralyze the vast eastern section of Africa or provoke bloody rioting again.

And if you want to know how huge this area is, look at a map. From the "nearby" eastern horn to the westernmost point, Africa is as wide as it is long — and East Africa is the bulk of it.

To prevent such a holocaust, the Kenyans are counting on the Kikuyu tribe, strangely enough. It was from these 1,200,000 people that the Mau Mau sprang some seven years ago.

INFORMED KENYANS say they have reasons for counting the Kikuyu as their friends now. It is known that some four or five months ago, the leaders of the Kenya Federation of Labor discussed calling a series of legitimate rolling strikes.

These would have been the garden variety of stoppages at one factory or dock or railhead after another. Kikuyu labor officials called their own caucus. They decided to send along word quietly to the Kenya Federation of Labor high command that the Kikuyu tribe had suffered enough in the Mau Mau "emergency." Now they wanted peace. There were no strikes.

It's a strange country. A beautiful land. Yet most of its communities are less than 50 years old. Despite its airports, "skyscrapers" and art exhibits Kenya gives you the feeling its people live in ancient frontier towns.

The Methodical Nixon

By Raymond Moley

It will probably be inevitable that later reflections and public comment on Vice President Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union will deal with its effect on Nixon's political future rather than on any diplomatic results.

Nixon accepted the assignment fully realizing that it might end in a monumental flop. It is possible that the more cautious of his political friends advised him to skip it on the ground that it was too great a risk to his popularity and reputation. Nevertheless, he decided to go, for a number of motives which his political enemies will not accept but which were in keeping with his character and with a number of important decisions which he has made in the past.

AMONG THOSE motives was a conviction that international tensions are so great that no risk should be avoided if there is a chance to accomplish something in the cause of peace.

Another is that Nixon had seen enough of formal diplomacy to believe that a less stilted approach would be likely to be successful. This conviction was strengthened as he assayed the "cowboy" methods of the Russians, especially of Khrushchev.

Long practice in the rough and ready business of politics gave him confidence that he could play a creditable role in free-hitting exchanges. This impression was confirmed in his rollicking "day at the fair" with the Soviet boss.

Finally, the President felt that he should go and that is always decisive with Nixon.

But beneath such calculations, there has always been a strong fatalism in the Nixon character. As Earl Mazo points out over and over in his book on Nixon, the vice president realizes keenly that "time and chance" govern most political events. He actually cited the consuming eagerness of men like Henry Clay, Robert Taft and even Harold Stassen to be president as examples of frustration.

He realizes that such intensity as consumed Captain Ahab in his determination to meet the Great White Whale ultimately destroyed the hunter.

Perhaps Shakespeare indicated this state of mind best: "If it be now, 'tis not to come; if it be not to come, it will be now; if it be not now, yet it will come: the readiness is all."

The word "readiness" is another key to Nixon's method. His acceptance of a personal political risk is no casual gamble. As president, no one would need to fear that caprice would govern his decisions. For no man in high office has ever made more meticulous preparation for every job he has ever undertaken.

Weeks were spent in preparing for this Nixon trip. In the last days the speech memorandum prepared for him at the State Department for opening the American Exhibition was not satisfactory to him and he personally wrote a draft of his own.

FOR EVERY TRIP abroad which he has undertaken for the President he has briefed himself with extreme care on the characteristics and problems of the countries to be visited.

After such careful appraisal, he has not hesitated to take the line of what he conceived to be his duty.

In the early stages of the Hiss case almost everyone, including the members of his own un-American Activities Committee, believed that Hiss could not be proved guilty and that an effort to do so would be a failure. But a firm conviction that it was a matter that simply had to be resolved, one way or another, drove him to a detailed investigation which finally uncovered the truth.

His belief is that without a fighting, united Republican party, no nomination will be worth having in 1960. The event will be in the hands of Providence and the times. But there will be no lack of readiness.

How High Is Up?

By James Marlow

Meetings To Get Ike, Khrush Off The Hook

WASHINGTON

How high is up? Or when is a summit conference not a summit conference?

No matter what they're called — and they are not being called summit conferences — the coming meetings between President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev get both men off a hook, for a while, anyway.

Yet, as of now, Khrushchev is away ahead on points in his duel with Eisenhower over Berlin where he precipitated a crisis which he has never let subside. He knows, and Eisenhower knows, he has the United States on a tough spot.

As a result of all he has done, he is getting exactly what he wanted: a personal meeting with Eisenhower.

It seems safe to say that if Khrushchev hadn't caused the Berlin crisis, and refused to budge an inch, Eisenhower wouldn't be asking him to Washington in September.

The dictionary describes a summit as the highest point. Since Eisenhower and Khrushchev are the top men in their governments, no meeting between Americans and Russians could be any more of a summit than this one.

Still Eisenhower doesn't call Khrushchev's visit here and his later visit with him in Moscow a summit meeting. He says they will have "informal talks...which will afford an opportunity for an exchange of views about problems of mutual interest."

Actually, the two men can reach understandings on their problems without signing formal papers. That could be done later — at a meeting officially billed as the summit — with Britain and France sitting in.

Whatever Eisenhower works out with Khrushchev will probably be acceptable to the Allies. He's making it plain he won't do anything behind their backs.

The Western alliance might have broken up if Eisenhower had let the Russians shut off Western access to West Berlin, as they had threatened to do, indirectly. So he couldn't afford to back down. Yet, if he called Khrushchev's hand and tried to run a blockade, the shooting might start.

For both men this ugly dilemma may be solved in their talks. If not, at least the talks will have postponed the showdown for some months.

Eisenhower is saved from embarrassment in another way, since the meetings with Khrushchev will not bear the title of summit.

He had repeatedly refused to meet the Soviet leader at the summit unless the foreign ministers at Geneva made some progress. Since they haven't, he couldn't very well agree to a "summit" meeting with Khrushchev without appearing to cave in.

This way, since the talks will be "informal," that dilemma is removed.

If the West didn't get its troops out of Berlin, Khrushchev threatened to let the East German Communists control the road and routes through which the West sends supplies to West Berlin.

If they shut off the routes and the West tried to force its way through, Moscow promised to go to the help of the East Germans. But couldn't the allies send in supplies with an airlift, as President Truman had done in smashing Stalin's Berlin blockade in 1948?

Eisenhower at a White House dinner and in news conferences has made it plain the West's position is potentially far worse than what developed in 1948. Red jamming of Western radar would make a mass airlift very difficult. The Reds didn't interfere with the air transport in 1948.

Farm Bill Buried

By Robert E. Lee

Congressional Democrats have now abandoned hope for writing any major new farm legislation before the 1960 elections.

And, although President Eisenhower is planning a national appeal for a change in the basic law which experts in both parties agree isn't working well, Republicans are darkly pessimistic about the chances of doing anything about it.

Democrats with farm belt constituencies are prepared to go to the electorate next year with a campaign blaming Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson for failing the farmers. Republicans will claim that previous Democratic administrations bequeathed them an unworkable program to administer.

However, there is some question whether agriculture will be a major issue in 1960. The political heat from the farm belt for higher price supports has been almost dissipated. Meanwhile, big city Democrats, on the spot for years, now almost openly disavow the federal subsidies in the form of rigid price supports promised by their campaign platforms of 1952 and 1956. They feel the heat from consumers demanding lower food prices regardless of the farmers' well-being.

THIS WASN'T the way Democratic farm spokesmen had it figured when Congress convened in January. They thought their party's big majorities in the House and Senate gave them a mandate — and an opportunity — to do something about Benson's drive to reduce price supports on basic crops and give the farmers more freedom to plant as they please but with lower guaranteed prices.

The Senate Agriculture Committee was to provide the stage for the Democratic overhaul of the price support program. Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas worked out the strategy with two committee members, Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Herman Talmadge of Georgia.

Humphrey and Talmadge were to compromise the often - conflicting views of producers of various crops and of the major agricultural lobbies. The heart of their plan was revival of what was known in the Truman administration as the Brannan Plan, embodying strict production controls with direct payments to farmers to equalize the difference between the parity formula value of particular crops and their market value.

The two senators, meeting with technical specialists throughout February, "traded" commodities to be included in the program until almost everything grown was included: Wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco, peanuts, dairy products, hogs, eggs, feed grains. At this point the negotiations broke down. The Humphrey - Talmadge plan is now dead for all practical purposes.

Humphrey, however, as a candidate for the presidential nomination and longtime champion of federal aid for small farmers, has drafted his own version of the sweeping proposal and may introduce it soon.

WHAT HAPPENED to the Democrats' winter enthusiasm?

For one thing, Talmadge said both he and Humphrey would be laughed out of the Senate if they offered the hodge - podge that was emerging from their conversations.

For another, the wide divergence of views held by various — and often competing — commodity groups gave little evidence of support from anything like a cohesive "farm bloc." Many of the farmers' best friends in Congress say the farmers themselves don't know what they want.

Moreover, Congressional Democrats were struck down early in the session in the first test of their strength to ram through agricultural legislation. This occurred on a purely political effort to strip Benson of some of his authority over the Rural Electrification Administration.

This move, sponsored by Humphrey, was regarded as the least controversial within the party of any legislation bearing on farm problems. Virtually all commodity groups backed it; those that didn't stayed in the background.

The bill passed both houses with large majorities but the President vetoed it. The Senate overrode the veto but it was sustained in the House. This was the indicator for the more realistic Democratic farm spokesmen in Congress. They knew they were licked.

The prevailing view among the Democrats now is to ride with what they call the "Eisenhower - Benson" Program, taking pot shots at it along the way to November, 1960. They reason that even if it were possible to put across a wholly new Democratic farm rogram, it would reap no political benefits. On the contrary, it would fix responsibility for any further farm failures on them.

They are satisfied now to live with a "Republican" farm program which is extremely costly and an administrative monstrosity; indeed, they prefer it to a program of their own which might not work either.

He was pronounced dead at Salem City Hospital.

A son of Amos and Rosalie Weber, he was born at Pittsburgh Oct. 1, 1894, and was married in 1925 to Mary Ethel Groscost of East Palestine. He was a veteran of World War I and a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Besides his widow, he is survived by five sisters, Mrs. William Sansenbaugher, Mrs. James Sansenbaugher and Mrs. Clarence Miller of Columbiana, Mrs. Donald Rupert of Albuquerque, N. M., and Mrs. Robert McIntyre of Greenville, S. C., and three brothers, Harvey Weber and Wilbur Weber of Columbiana and Robert Weber of Miami Springs, Fla.

Services will be held at 1:30 p. m. at the VanDyke Funeral Home by the Rev. Chalmers Goshorn. Burial will be in Glenview Cemetery.

Friends may call Wednesday night at the funeral home.

Swarm Of Wasps Invades City Yard

A College St. woman alarmed at swarms of insects in her back yard learned today that they are actually a variety of the sand wasp familiar in this area but are not considered dangerous.

Johnson said the large insects—with brown wings and black and yellow striped bodies armed with a stinger—are known as "cicada killers."

He advised Mrs. Ethel Cornell, 427 College St., to use a solution of DDT to rid the premises of the insects which build nests in sandy soil.

Mrs. Cornell said the insects appeared in her yard last summer but had multiplied in number this year.

Johnson explained that the cicada killer uses its stinger to paralyze locusts which are then used by larvae to feed on while in the hatching process. The insects should begin disappearing into the ground soon with the approach of cool weather, he said. The farm agent pointed out that he had never heard of any person being stung by a cicada killer.

In most of the countries of the Middle East, 80 per cent of the people are employed in agriculture.

Boy Hurt Badly In 35-Foot Drop

A 12-year-old Chester boy who won a "crate derby" title Saturday afternoon, is in "serious" condition today at City Hospital with multiple fractures suffered in a 35-foot drop from a grapevine on which he was swinging near his home Monday night.

Dick Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tuttle of Fairview Rd., received pelvis, hip and ankle fractures, broken fingers on the left hand, body bruises and cuts of the face.

The eighth grade student was swinging out over Cunningham's Run near Fairview Rd. when he apparently slipped from the vine and plummeted some 35 feet on to rocks below about 7 p. m. He and some other boys had been playing at the site for about 15 minutes.

His father and some neighbors called an ambulance and covered him with blankets until it arrived, then carried him on a stretcher to the waiting vehicle.

River Once Flowed North

Glaciers Carved Terrain Of City

East Liverpool has had its "ups and downs," but few realize just to what extent the local land surface has heaved and sunk in its geological past.

The city's present site has been under a large lake, in a deep canyon and at other times a broad river bottom, according to Heber D. Lessig, soil scientist for the Soil Conservation Service at Lisbon.

As part of a soil survey of the county which has been in progress for several years and is due to be completed shortly, the Soil Conservation Service has detailed the geological history of areas in the county.

LESSIG SAID the geographic changes of the East Liverpool site were accomplished by the action of 4 great glaciers which moved into Ohio from central Canada starting about 700,000 years ago.

Before the glacial age, the ancient Ohio River flowed northward past the present city site, past Beaver Falls and toward Lake Erie. Beaver Creek was but a small run which began near Grimms Bridge.

Then the first huge glacier moved south, blocking the ancient river, and forming a huge pond which flooded the present city except for the high areas along present St. Clair Ave. and Lisbon St.

The lake rose high enough to spill through the hills south of Bellaire, and thus cut a new escape route which resulted in the present southern course of the Ohio River.

Beaver Creek was greatly enlarged at this time because a divide between Grimms Bridge and Fredericktown was cut through, and the new stream now drained nearly all of the county.

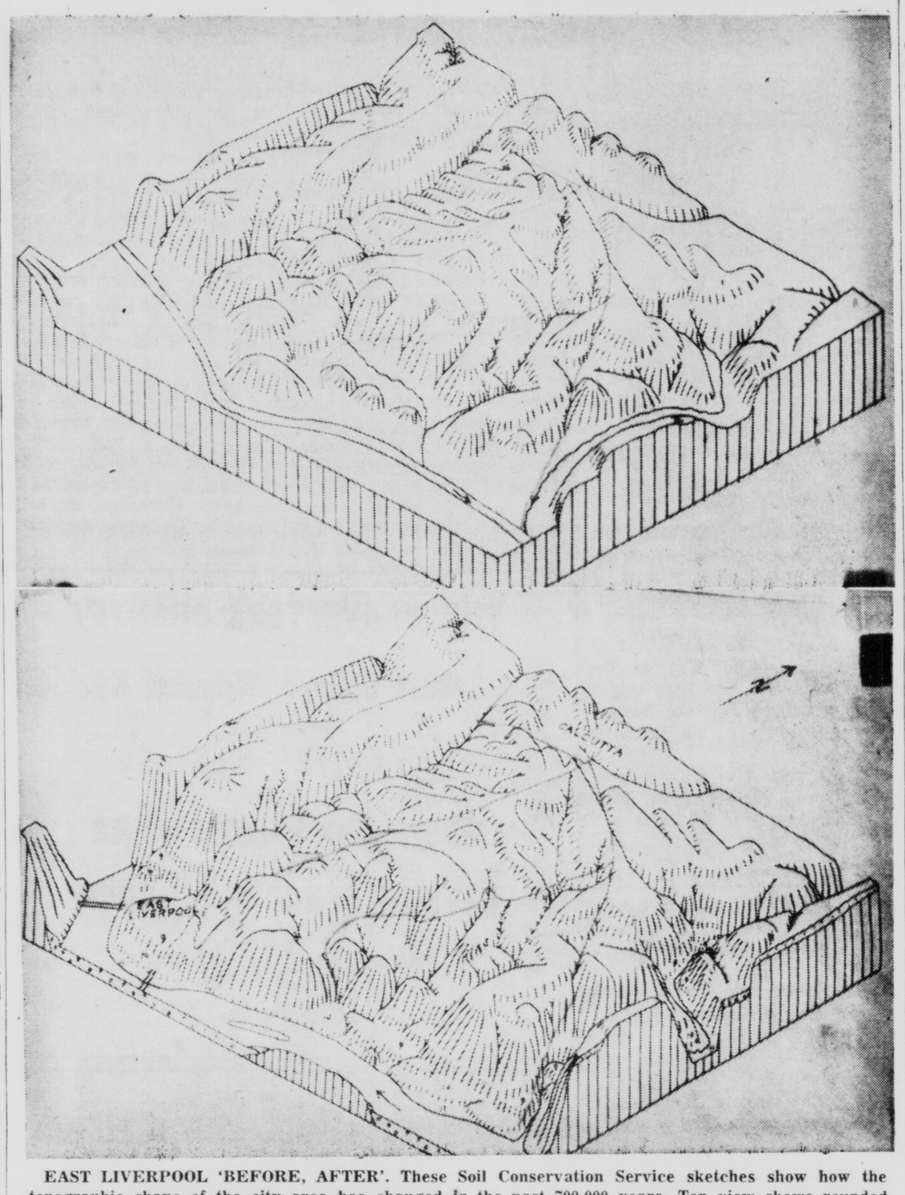
ALSO DURING this period, the soils on the uplands around the city were deposited—shallow soils and deeper soils formed from sandstone and shale rock, and some lake-deposited silt which resulted in Calcutta soils, found north of Calcutta and along Maine Blvd.

After the lake drained, the melting ice carried sand and gravel southward, some deposited in the area of the Riverview Cemetery, the low level reservoir and toward Bank St.

The new Ohio River began to entrench itself to levels below the Riverview Greenhouse until about 400,000 years ago when a second glacier invaded the state, reaching as far south as Elkton. This glaciation is mostly unknown throughout the Eastern United States, but some of its gravel can be found near Beaver Kettle farm, Grimms Bridge and benind the Thorofare Market in the East End.



EAST LIVERPOOL 'BEFORE, AFTER'. These Soil Conservation Service sketches show how the topographic shape of the city area has changed in the past 700,000 years. Top view shows rounded hills and shallow Ohio Valley in which the ancient river flowed north. Bottom view is the present deeper valley, higher hills and the Ohio River, diverted to the south by glacial action in the intervening years. The shelf on which the city now stands is of sand and gravel which filled the valley after a glacier melted.

AFTER THE SECOND glacier, the river cut the Ohio Valley about 50 feet deeper than it is today, and the area under downtown East Liverpool was in a deep canyon, surrounded by cliffs 400 to 650 feet high.

A third and a fourth glacier moved into the area—the third extending south as far as Pancakes Corners and Clarkson, and its meltwater filled the local "canyon" with the gravel and sand to the level upon which the city business district is built.

The river soon cut a channel through this layer of material, but the fourth glacier—occurring only about 15,000 years ago—filled the channel to the level along Harvey Ave. in the East End.

This fourth glacier reached only as far as Lisbon and Rogers and a mile south of East Palestine.

VIEWED FROM the hills of Chester, the land surface appears as a series of stepped levels, and each level has a history recorded in its soil which reveals part of the entire geologic history of the upper Ohio Valley, Lessig said.

"Probably nowhere in the Eastern United States is the record of this history so complete than here in East Liverpool and the area of the county just to the north," he said.

Lessig said land owners in the county may secure information about their farms by contacting the Conservation District office at 517 E. Washington St., Lisbon.

In the soil survey now being completed, information has been gathered to help the farmer decide what crops would be best adapted to each field, and to give him an understanding of the internal drainage of each field.

House Group Clearing Way For Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wide-open floor battle over labor control legislation was indicated today as the House Rules Committee called hearings to determine procedure.

Without working over the legislation itself, the committee decides on debate limits, the extent of amendments to be allowed, and ground rules which play a big part in shaping House action on bills.

Before it was a bill approved 16-14 by the House Labor Committee but opposed by many who want it changed on the House floor.

The committee consequently was expected to send the bill to the floor wide open to amendment to satisfy members who contend it is too weak and needs strengthening, and others who say it is too tough and needs toning down.

The Rules Committee, under pressure to get the bill before the House this week, suspended hearings on other legislation to give it priority.

As it came from the Labor Committee, the measure eased many restrictions of the Senate-passed bill but followed that bill's general pattern.

It would ban "hot cargo" clauses in union contracts and extortion picketing. A modified labor "bill of rights" is included, but without the criminal penalties the Senate voted for violations. The bill would require unions to make extensive financial reports and would require the National Labor Relations Board to take jurisdiction in all labor dispute cases. The board may now decline jurisdiction in small cases, and the states are prohibited from acting.

It strongest and most influential backing came Monday from Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), who declared: "I think it does a splendid job." Rayburn said the Labor Committee bill "covers racketeering in a fine fashion."

But only five of the 30 Labor Committee members had a good word to say for it. The others said it would be too tough on labor, or not tough enough.

Army's Dead Man Very Much Alive

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—William H. Suggs' wife received two letters from the U.S. Army Monday.

One offered condolences and one suggested she start processing insurance claims on the death of her husband, a retired Army sergeant.

"I couldn't help feeling funny," the 33-year-old Suggs said. "It was like reading my own death warrant. It said I was officially dead—but I'm not.

"My wife panicked even though I had only left for work three hours before. I had to come home and convince her I was alive."

Suggs, a janitor, retired from the Army in 1958 with a 100 per cent medical disability.

"The letters all gave my right name, my rank and my serial number," he said. "It was all right—all except for that one thing.

Leach Named Head Of BUC

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Donald B. Leach, assistant secretary of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. here, will become administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation Aug. 15.

The 44-year-old Columbus executive was appointed to the post Monday by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. Leach will succeed James R. Tichenor, who continued as administrator when his term expired last February until the post could be filled.

The governor said that Tichenor, who became administrator in 1956, had been helpful during the recent legislative session, but that "sooner or later you have to get someone new in the picture."

"I wanted someone I knew personally," DiSalle said of Leach's appointment.

Leach, a native of Wellston and the father of four children, worked in the Office of Price Stabilization here while DiSalle was federal price controller during the Truman Administration.

Appointed to a four-year term, Leach will draw $14,000 a year.

Ashland Oil Earnings Show Substantial Rise

Net income of the Ashland Oil & Refining Co. of Ashland, Ky., for the quarter ended June 30, was $3,367,624, compared with $1,314,511 for the corresponding quarter of last year.

Earnings applicable to common stock were equal to 49 cents per share this year and 16 cents per share last year.

Net income of the company for the first nine months of the current fiscal year increased 43 per cent over the similar period last year to $10,532,132 as compared with $7,355,414. After preferred stock dividends, these earnings are the equivalent on common stock of $1.54 per share as compared with $1.06 per share last year.

Net sales of $72,985,583 for the June quarter and $228,566,873 for the nine months represent an increase over last year of 15 per cent for the quarter and 8 per cent for the nine-month period. Ashland operates a river-truck terminal at Wellsville.

Reading For Pleasure Pays Good Dividends

It is very important for the child's later success in school to have read many good books. Consider the thousands of bright youths failing on tests for entering college because they never read much for pleasure. It still may not be too late to inspire the child in the upper grades or high school, who has read very little, to read a good many books now. He may have average skill at reading but, more often, he is a poor reader. He may read no better than a fifth, fourth or even third grader.

By Garry Meyers

THERE IS not much hope for stimulating children to read more books which are hard for them to read. How many poor readers do you know who read much for pleasure, beyond comics?

So our first problem in trying to get a poor reader, at any age, to read more books for pleasure is to find ways of helping him become a better reader.

We may do so by providing him with books and other materials interesting to him and in language easy enough for him to read fairly well. Also, we may need to find the help of a reading expert or reading clinic for him.

Yet a few poor readers may be inspired by persons they esteem to drive themselves to read more and more, believing they can profit from doing so.

I know something about this. I was a very poor reader myself when I was a boy. I could read words pretty well, but did not read well for meaning. I didn't know what my trouble was and nobody told me or offered to help.

BUY MY eldest brother, whom I greatly admired and who never went far in formal education but read a good deal himself all his life, kept urging me after I was eight or ten, especially in my teens, to read many books. I can remember his saying:

"Garry, you should be reading."

Also, a favorite aunt did likewise. When I was in the middle grades she sent me a book every Christmas. It was suited for a child my age but far too hard for me to enjoy.

Yet I'm sure something good came out of their urging. I did drive myself to read some, but not much, so poorly did I read. But their urging was always on my conscience even through college and graduate school.

I took a spurt at reading skill when I began reading to my own children, and to this day I regularly read a great deal, selectively, sometimes from a sense of duty.

My bulletins, "Home Helps for Poor Readers I and II," may be had by sending a self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Swimming Class 'Graduation' Set

A water program will be held Saturday night at 7:30 at Thompson Park pool to mark the "graduation" of nearly 400 persons who took water safety training in the annual series of classes conducted by the Red Cross.

Jack Frontone, instructor, said certificates will be presented to those who have not already been given the cards. Al West will be master of ceremonies and Judge Louis Tobin will be guest speaker.

The water program will include demonstration of basic swimming strokes, diving exhibition, life saving techniques and clown performers.

Frontone said enrollment in the various classes totaled close to 500, the largest number ever participating in the annual series. Classes were held for beginners, intermediates, swimmers, advanced and in life saving.

It is very important for the child's later success in school to have read many good books. Consider the thousands of bright youths failing on tests for entering college because they never read much for pleasure. It still may not be too late to inspire the child in the upper grades or high school, who has read very little, to read a good many books now. He may have average skill at reading but, more often, he is a poor reader. He may read no better than a fifth, fourth or even third grader.

THERE IS not much hope for stimulating children to read more books which are hard for them to read. How many poor readers do you know who read much for pleasure, beyond comics?

So our first problem in trying to get a poor reader, at any age, to read more books for pleasure is to find ways of helping him become a better reader.

We may do so by providing him with books and other materials interesting to him and in language easy enough for him to read fairly well. Also, we may need to find the help of a reading expert or reading clinic for him.

Yet a few poor readers may be inspired by persons they esteem to drive themselves to read more and more, believing they can profit from doing so.

I know something about this. I was a very poor reader myself when I was a boy. I could read words pretty well, but did not read well for meaning. I didn't know what my trouble was and nobody told me or offered to help.

BUY MY eldest brother, whom I greatly admired and who never went far in formal education but read a good deal himself all his life, kept urging me after I was eight or ten, especially in my teens, to read many books. I can remember his saying:

"Garry, you should be reading."

Also, a favorite aunt did likewise. When I was in the middle grades she sent me a book every Christmas. It was suited for a child my age but far too hard for me to enjoy.

Yet I'm sure something good came out of their urging. I did drive myself to read some, but not much, so poorly did I read. But their urging was always on my conscience even through college and graduate school.

I took a spurt at reading skill when I began reading to my own children, and to this day I regularly read a great deal, selectively, sometimes from a sense of duty.

My bulletins, "Home Helps for Poor Readers I and II," may be had by sending a self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Swimming Class 'Graduation' Set

A water program will be held Saturday night at 7:30 at Thompson Park pool to mark the "graduation" of nearly 400 persons who took water safety training in the annual series of classes conducted by the Red Cross.

Jack Frontone, instructor, said certificates will be presented to those who have not already been given the cards. Al West will be master of ceremonies and Judge Louis Tobin will be guest speaker.

The water program will include demonstration of basic swimming strokes, diving exhibition, life saving techniques and clown performers.

Frontone said enrollment in the various classes totaled close to 500, the largest number ever participating in the annual series. Classes were held for beginners, intermediates, swimmers, advanced and in life saving.

White orchids arranged in a cascade effect on her white missal were carried by Miss Lydia DeProspero when she became the bride of Joseph Simko Jr. of Duquesne, son of Joseph Simko and the late Mrs. Simko. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John DeProspero of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1.

Fr. Robert P. Garland performed the ceremony Saturday in the Presentation Catholic Church in Midland before the altar banked with ferns and white blossoms.

Mrs. John Nuzzo of Midland, organist, accompanied the Boys' Choir for the Nuptial High Mass.

The bride's gown of mousseline de soie was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and a yolk of peau diauge lace and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt had a panel front with side-to-back gathered fullness. The lace was repeated in a wreath design around the entire edge and into the chapel train.

Miss Helen Petroff of Midland was maid of honor. The bride's sister, Marie DeProspero, of Midland and Miss Mary Ann Simko of Duquesne, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Their chiffon gowns were of light blue color and featured a full bouffant skirt of street length. Their nose-tip veils of light blue net were caught to crowns of matching blue. They carried yellow carnations arranged in a cascade effect.

Henry Relko of Duquesne, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Andrew Fiedor and Bernard Rogers, both of Duquesne, were ushers.

An afternoon reception for 200 guests was held in Deramo's Azure Room in Midland. A five-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal pair, centered the bride's table.

Following a honeymoon at Miami Beach, Fla., the couple will be at home in a newly-furnished apartment in Painesville, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of Midland High School and Geneva College. She has resigned her teaching job at Sewickley High School to accept one at Painesville. The bridegroom was graduated from Duquesne High School and the University of Pittsburgh. He is employed by Bell Telephone Co. of Cleveland.

"NINE TENTHS OF WISDOM CONSISTS OF BEING WISE IN TIME"
—*(Author's Name Below)

Wisdom is the ability to judge the facts and do the right thing at the proper time. When you are sick, wisdom dictates that the time a cure can be more easily accomplished is at the very first sign of trouble. To delay gives an attacking germ or virus the opportunity to multiply and ravage your body.

At the very first sign of any illness, be wise. Consult your physician. Let him diagnose the cause and prescribe the proper medicines he judges will help you most. You will save much sickness-time and add years to your life.

Osteopath Plans Wellsville Office

Within two weeks, Dr. D. Y. Campbell, 38, a native of Kentucky, will establish practice as an osteopath in Wellsville.

He has leased property at 4th and Main Sts., owned by Mrs. Martha Kountz, for a year and is extensively remodeling it for his offices.

Dr. Campbell completed a year's internship at Grandview Hospital at Dayton in June. He is a graduate of Kansas City College in osteopathy and surgery and received his master's degree at the University of Kentucky at Lexington where he took his premed and undergraduate work. Dr. Campbell taught and coached football for two years in Winchester, Ky., and three years at Del Rio, Tex., prior to entering osteopathy and he is a World War II veteran with four year's service.

He and his wife, the former Miss Lois King, a graduate of Wellsville High School and a registered nurse, and their two children, Virginia Lynn, 10, and Mary Anne, 1½, are residing in an apartment at 636 Henry Ave.

Ruth Greenwood Becomes Bride Of Homer Nellis Lau

The 54th wedding anniversary of her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mackey, 900 Morton St., was chosen by Miss Ruth Ann Greenwood for her marriage Saturday to Homer Nellis Lau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Lau of Salem.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Greenwood, also of Salem, former local residents.

Palms, ferns and flowers banked the altar of the First Presbyterian Church at Salem for the 2:30 o'clock double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. William C. Snowball, pastor of the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Howard Wakefield of East Liverpool, cousin of the bride sang, "O, Perfect Love," Wedding Prayer," "The Lord Most Holy" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of bouquet taffeta fashioned with a bouffant skirt featuring side panels appliqued in lace and sequins.

Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was held in place by a headpiece of pearls and lace and she carried a lace-covered white Bible topped with an arrangement of orchids, stephanotis and maiden fern.

Miss Kaye Cook of East Liverpool was the maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Spiro Nellis of Bordentown, N. J., Miss Carol Sue Blackert of Willard, Miss Carol Willard of Poland and Miss Peggy Martin of Salem.

Victor Lake of Salem, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers were, Larry Truzzie of Rogers, Bob Ellyson, cousin of the bride, Dale Shaffer and Bob Boals, all of Salem.

A reception for 350 was held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. A five tier cake topped with a wedding bell and lilies-of-the-valley centered the buffet table.

Aides were Miss Kaye Speilhaupter of Chagrin Falls, Mrs. Robert Domencetti of Berea and Mrs. John Litty and Mrs. John Roberts of Salem.

Both are graduates of Salem High School. The bride is a 1959 graduate of Kent State University and will teach in the Salem schools.

Ohio Township

White orchids arranged in a cascade effect on her white missal were carried by Miss Lydia DeProspero when she became the bride of Joseph Simko Jr. of Duquesne, son of Joseph Simko and the late Mrs. Simko. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John DeProspero of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1.

Fr. Robert P. Garland performed the ceremony Saturday in the Presentation Catholic Church in Midland before the altar banked with ferns and white blossoms.

Mrs. John Nuzzo of Midland, organist, accompanied the Boys' Choir for the Nuptial High Mass.

The bride's gown of mousseline de soie was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and a yolk of peau diauge lace and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt had a panel front with side-to-back gathered fullness. The lace was repeated in a wreath design around the entire edge and into the chapel train.

Miss Helen Petroff of Midland was maid of honor. The bride's sister, Marie DeProspero, of Midland and Miss Mary Ann Simko of Duquesne, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Their chiffon gowns were of light blue color and featured a full bouffant skirt of street length. Their nose-tip veils of light blue net were caught to crowns of matching blue. They carried yellow carnations arranged in a cascade effect.

Henry Relko of Duquesne, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Andrew Fiedor and Bernard Rogers, both of Duquesne, were ushers.

An afternoon reception for 200 guests was held in Deramo's Azure Room in Midland. A five-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal pair, centered the bride's table.

Following a honeymoon at Miami Beach, Fla., the couple will be at home in a newly-furnished apartment in Painesville, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of Midland High School and Geneva College. She has resigned her teaching job at Sewickley High School to accept one at Painesville. The bridegroom was graduated from Duquesne High School and the University of Pittsburgh. He is employed by Bell Telephone Co. of Cleveland.

Board Picks New Firm

Pupils' Insurance To Be Continued

The Board of Education Monday night decided to continue student accident insurance for another year and selected a new firm which will offer the policy to all students for $1.50.

It agreed to accept the policy offered by the Michigan Life Insurance Co. represented locally by Paul Shingler.

The Hoosier Casualty Co., which wrote the policy last term, no longer is handling student insurance, Betts told the board.

In addition to covering all students and all sports except interscholastic football, the firm provides coverage for football players for an additional $7.50 per player in grades 9 through 12.

THE FIRM offered a plan under which all students would pay $1.75 and football injuries also would be covered but Supt. Ralph W. Betts said he doesn't believe all children should pay to include football.

Betts suggested the Athletic Board determine how the additional policy for football players will be handled—by the Athletic Association alone, sharing the cost with the student involved, or whether the association would continue to pay any physician or hospital bills without insurance.

Betts said the plans offered by three other firms were investigated but the benefits were virtually the same with varying premiums.

The Potters Insurance Agency of East Liverpool asked $2 for covering children from kindergarten through eighth grade and $2.50 for those in grades 9-12.

THE LAMBERTH Insurance Agency of Dayton asked $1.50 for elementary students and $2 for those in high school.

However, neither of the plans made any provision for football coverage.

The Pioneer Mutual Casualty Co. asked $1.50 for elementary pupils in the first six grades and $2 for those in junior and senior high schools with an additional $12.50 for those participating in football.

The appointments of six new teachers were approved by the board.

They include Miss Joan Hutchman and Mrs. Gladys Patterson as elementary teachers, John Berry Jr. and Miss Burdene Bowman as music teachers, and Everett Daniels and Wilbur Horvath Jr. as junior high instructors.

THE BOARD ALSO approved a breakdown of the salary schedule for junior high school coaches. No increases are provided, Betts told the board in asking the change to make for easier bookkeeping.

The salaries provided $250 for head coaches and $150 for assistants in each sport.

Betts reported it will cost the board $340 to replace damaged glass block in a hall corridor at Westgate School or $1,489 to replace the glass block with brick and tile.

The board decided to proceed with replacing the damaged glass block and to secure the price on a screen mesh to protect the block from further damage. The superintendent also was asked to secure an estimate on replacing glass block broken in other scattered sections of the building.

LEO C. LAWRENCE, president, commented, "I wonder if parents realize what vandalism by some children costs them each year as taxpayers." He pointed out youngsers not only throw rocks at the glass block and window glass but also have dented the aluminum paneling between floors with stones.

The board approved the rental of Westgate gymnasium to the East Liverpool Dahlia and Floral Society for Friday night, Sept. 18, and all day Sept. 19 and 20 for its annual show.

Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, reported receipt of $180,000 in advance on the August real estate taxes. It includes $147,000 for the general fund and $33,000 for the bond retirement fund.

THERE IS A balance of $162,534 in school funds, she reported, including $109,868, general fund; $44,862, bond retirement; $6,790, cafeteria; $797, improvement; $15, firemen's training; $16.50, foreman's training; $139, carpenter training and $209 in night school account. There is a deficit of $165 in the workbook account.

Diabetic Scores Reducing Victory

An overweight who couldn't reduce to save her life did reduce so that her son would not be left motherless. Today's stirring story from a courageous woman shows that when the motivation to reduce is strong enough, a near miracle can be wrought. She writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"On February 11th, something happened to me on a determined reducing course. At that time I weighed 197 pounds (height 5 feet 1½) and had a blood sugar count of 320. (Normal blood sugar for me is 80 to 110.)

That evening my 11-year-old son came home in a hysterical state. After getting him quieted down, I got out of him the reason for his upset. His best friend's mother had died that day—of diabetes. He kept repeating that he didn't know anyone could die of diabetes.

"ON FEB. 12, I went to my doctor and told him that this time I was truly serious about losing weight and getting my blood sugar down. He didn't believe me, because I had taken no care of myself for ten years.

My right arm was almost completely useless...I couldn't eat with it, iron or write more than a dozen words at one time... that shows you what a bad state I was in.

"I started that very day on 1,100 calories, a vitamin capsule, and 10 minutes of exercise. Now, 4½ months later, I have lost 47 pounds, my blood sugar count is down to 133, and I have changed from size 22½ to a perfect 16½.

"I feel like a new woman. I still am on 1,100 calories and continue to make the vitamin supplement. But now I am exercising for 4 minutes every day, plus walking two miles. I can now sew, iron and write—as you can see from this letter.

"I have lost the weight evenly, from head to toe, and I have not become drawn or tired looking in my face. I do need some special exercise to help restore tone to the abdominal muscles and to pull off a roll of fat right above my bra line, under my arms.

"TELL YOUR other overweight diabetics that, whereas I used to require 80 units of insulin a day, I am now down to 6 units a day."

Cheers for this courageous mother. Love is a motivating force so strong it can truly work miracles.

Reducing the excess weight lightens the load on the system. Exercise is of paramount importance to the diabetic for it lowers the blood sugar and thereby lessens the amount of insulin needed.

On both the diet and exercise score, the diabetic must follow the doctor's instructions implicitly.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My son is 32 years old, nice looking and has a wonderful job. He makes $10,000 a year and has saved more than $40,000, but his stinginess is making me crazy. He refuses to take out a girl because it costs money. He won't go to a movie because he can see it free a few years later on TV. His car is seven years old but he refuses to buy a new one because the one he has "gets him where he's going." He wears his suits till they fall apart. When his shoe laces break he ties them together.

According to him, everyone is jealous or "after something," so naturally he has no friends. How can I get him to see there's more to life than living for the dollar? He thinks you're a smart woman. Maybe he'll listen to you. — MISER'S MOTHER.

Dear Miser's Mother: Your son isn't living — he's existing, poor thing. Anyone who has such a fix on the dollar is sick. He'd probably refuse to get professional help because it would cost something.

Stop begging him to let the moths out of his wallet. Instead, remind him occasionally that he isn't getting any younger and suggest some worthy charity or a needy relative who ought to be remembered in his big fat will.

Package Deal

Dear Ann: I married a divorced man last year. This was my first marriage and I'm no kid. I'm frank to admit I don't care for children and never did.

My husband has two teen-age daughters by his first marriage. He gets custody eight weeks every summer. They moved in last week and I'm a wreck.

To begin with, he pays $250 a month support money which means a healthy slice out or our income. The girls wear nicer clothes than I do. They are lazy, sleep late and don't pick up after themselves. When they make a bed I have to make it over. They're a nuisance in the kitchen because they don't know how to do anything.

I mentioned this to my husband last night and he gave me a long, icy look and said, "They are my daughters and I don't want to hear any complaints against them."

Dear Tattered: When you marry a divorced man with a family, you buy the total package—step-children, support checks, ex-wife, a man with built-in-memories and roots elsewhere.

These girls may mean nothing to you but less money and more work but to your husband they are the stars in his crown.

If they don't know how to make a bed or prepare a meal, teach them. Don't pick up after them. Let them know in a friendly but firm manner what's expected and they'll toe the line. Build bridges with these girls — not fences — or you may find you're the one on the outside.

A Real Sleeper

Dear Ann: A lady comes to visit me quite often. She's been a widow for several years, has lovely manners and is a fine person. Please don't think there's anything wrong with her but occasionally she falls asleep in the middle of a conversation.

I'd like to know the proper way to wake her up. Or should I let her sleep?

Last week I did let her sleep but I felt uncomfortable with her asleep in the chair while I did my housework.—MRS. L.

Confidentially

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sweet Adelines Will Get Charter At Event Aug. 22

The appearance of several visiting quartets for "Charter Night" ceremonies were announced at the meeting of Sweet Adelines, barbershop vocal group, Friday night in the YMCA.

Mrs. Jan Dietz, corresponding secretary, received confirmation from the Town and Country Four, third-place international medalists, and the Gibson Girls, both of Pittsburgh, and the Three Joe's and a Dot of Sharon.

The chapter will officially receive its charter Aug. 22 at Westgate School Auditorium. Mrs. Ann Claypool, chairman, presided for the committee meeting when reports were given by Miss Jo Ann Vannoy, program; Mrs. Phyllis Moore, house; Mrs. Dietz, advertising; Mrs. Ruth Rinehart, social, Mrs. Hazel Kiehl, finance, and Mrs. Clara Hall, publicity.

Membership cards have been received from the international office.

The group accepted invitations to sing for meetings of the Junior Women's Club in September, the Lisbon American Legion Auxiliary in January and the Colloquium Club in February.

Glenn Woods, director, conducted business in the absence of Mrs. Martha Blatchford, president.

A picnic will be held at 8 Friday night in the upper pavilion of Thompson Park. Members will bring wieners for their families.

Fish are unafraid of underwater divers who are equipped with underwater lungs and headpieces. If the diver remains motionless, bass and sunfish will stop and peer through the glass face mask.

How Can I? ? ?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I iron straight adges on long curtains?

A. You'll find this rather difficult job somewhat easier if you iron the curtains slightly damp, and if you pin one end of the curtain to the end of the ironing board and hold the other end with your hand, stretching it tight as you iron.

Q. How can I eliminate the odor from a garment that has been cleaned with turpentine?

A. You can do something about hastening the departure of the odor if you will steam the garment in the bathroom while the hot shower is running, and then air it outdoors for at a least one full day.

Q. How can I prevent the casters on some of my furniture from scratching and streaking my hardwood floors?

THE BOARD ALSO approved a breakdown of the salary schedule for junior high school coaches. No increases are provided, Betts told the board in asking the change to make for easier bookkeeping.

The salaries provided $250 for head coaches and $150 for assistants in each sport.

Betts reported it will cost the board $340 to replace damaged glass block in a hall corridor at Westgate School or $1,489 to replace the glass block with brick and tile.

The board decided to proceed with replacing the damaged glass block and to secure the price on a screen mesh to protect the block from further damage. The superintendent also was asked to secure an estimate on replacing glass block broken in other scattered sections of the building.

LEO C. LAWRENCE, president, commented, "I wonder if parents realize what vandalism by some children costs them each year as taxpayers." He pointed out youngsters not only throw rocks at the glass block and window glass but also have dented the aluminum paneling between floors with stones.

The board approved the rental of Westgate gymnasium to the East Liverpool Dahlia and Floral Society for Friday night, Sept. 18, and all day Sept. 19 and 20 for its annual show.

Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, reported receipt of $180,000 in advance on the August real estate taxes. It includes $147,000 for the general fund and $33,000 for the bond retirement fund.

THERE IS A balance of $162,534 in school funds, she reported, including $109,868, general fund; $44,862, bond retirement; $6,790, cafeteria; $797, improvement; $15, firemen's training; $16.50, foreman's training; $139, carpenter training and $209 in night school account. There is a deficit of $165 in the workbook account.

Was Risky Thievery

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — It was only a routine building check, so police officers H. K. Downey and J. W. Brock didn't worry when they left their patrol car. But when they returned it was gone. Fifteen minutes later the embarrassed officers found the car parked in front of a nearby cafe.

Diabetic Scores Reducing Victory

An overweight who couldn't reduce to save her life did reduce so that her son would not be left motherless. Today's stirring story from a courageous woman shows that when the motivation to reduce is strong enough, a near miracle can be wrought. She writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"On February 11th, something happened to me on a determined reducing course. At that time I weighed 197 pounds (height 5 feet 1½) and had a blood sugar count of 320. (Normal blood sugar for me is 80 to 110.)

That evening my 11-year-old son came home in a hysterical state. After getting him quieted down, I got out of him the reason for his upset. His best friend's mother had died that day—of diabetes. He kept repeating that he didn't know anyone could die of diabetes.

"ON FEB. 12, I went to my doctor and told him that this time I was truly serious about losing weight and getting my blood sugar down. He didn't believe me, because I had taken no care of myself for ten years.

My right arm was almost completely useless...I couldn't eat with it, iron or write more than a dozen words at one time... that shows you what a bad state I was in.

"I started that very day on 1,100 calories, a vitamin capsule, and 10 minutes of exercise. Now, 4½ months later, I have lost 47 pounds, my blood sugar count is down to 133, and I have changed from size 22½ to a perfect 16½.

"I feel like a new woman. I still am on 1,100 calories and continue to make the vitamin supplement. But now I am exercising for 4 minutes every day, plus walking two miles. I can now sew, iron and write—as you can see from this letter.

"I have lost the weight evenly, from head to toe, and I have not become drawn or tired looking in my face. I do need some special exercise to help restore tone to the abdominal muscles and to pull off a roll of fat right above my bra line, under my arms.

"TELL YOUR other overweight diabetics that, whereas I used to require 80 units of insulin a day, I am now down to 6 units a day."

Cheers for this courageous mother. Love is a motivating force so strong it can truly work miracles.

Reducing the excess weight lightens the load on the system. Exercise is of paramount importance to the diabetic for it lowers the blood sugar and thereby lessens the amount of insulin needed.

On both the diet and exercise score, the diabetic must follow the doctor's instructions implicitly.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My son is 32 years old, nice looking and has a wonderful job. He makes $10,000 a year and has saved more than $40,000, but his stinginess is making me crazy. He refuses to take out a girl because it costs money. He won't go to a movie because he can see it free a few years later on TV. His car is seven years old but he refuses to buy a new one because the one he has "gets him where he's going." He wears his suits till they fall apart. When his shoe laces break he ties them together.

According to him, everyone is jealous or "after something," so naturally he has no friends. How can I get him to see there's more to life than living for the dollar? He thinks you're a smart woman. Maybe he'll listen to you. — MISER'S MOTHER.

Dear Miser's Mother: Your son isn't living — he's existing, poor thing. Anyone who has such a fix on the dollar is sick. He'd probably refuse to get professional help because it would cost something.

Stop begging him to let the moths out of his wallet. Instead, remind him occasionally that he isn't getting any younger and suggest some worthy charity or a needy relative who ought to be remembered in his big fat will.

Package Deal

Dear Ann: I married a divorced man last year. This was my first marriage and I'm no kid. I'm frank to admit I don't care for children and never did.

My husband has two teen-age daughters by his first marriage. He gets custody eight weeks every summer. They moved in last week and I'm a wreck.

To begin with, he pays $250 a month support money which means a healthy slice out or our income. The girls wear nicer clothes than I do. They are lazy, sleep late and don't pick up after themselves. When they make a bed I have to make it over. They're a nuisance in the kitchen because they don't know how to do anything.

I mentioned this to my husband last night and he gave me a long, icy look and said, "They are my daughters and I don't want to hear any complaints against them."

Dear Tattered: When you marry a divorced man with a family, you buy the total package—step-children, support checks, ex-wife, a man with built-in-memories and roots elsewhere.

These girls may mean nothing to you but less money and more work but to your husband they are the stars in his crown.

If they don't know how to make a bed or prepare a meal, teach them. Don't pick up after them. Let them know in a friendly but firm manner what's expected and they'll toe the line. Build bridges with these girls — not fences — or you may find you're the one on the outside.

A Real Sleeper

Dear Ann: A lady comes to visit me quite often. She's been a widow for several years, has lovely manners and is a fine person. Please don't think there's anything wrong with her but occasionally she falls asleep in the middle of a conversation.

I'd like to know the proper way to wake her up. Or should I let her sleep?

Last week I did let her sleep but I felt uncomfortable with her asleep in the chair while I did my housework.—MRS. L.

Confidentially

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sweet Adelines Will Get Charter At Event Aug. 22

The appearance of several visiting quartets for "Charter Night" ceremonies were announced at the meeting of Sweet Adelines, barbershop vocal group, Friday night in the YMCA.

Mrs. Jan Dietz, corresponding secretary, received confirmation from the Town and Country Four, third-place international medalists, and the Gibson Girls, both of Pittsburgh, and the Three Joe's and a Dot of Sharon.

The chapter will officially receive its charter Aug. 22 at Westgate School Auditorium. Mrs. Ann Claypool, chairman, presided for the committee meeting when reports were given by Miss Jo Ann Vannoy, program; Mrs. Phyllis Moore, house; Mrs. Dietz, advertising; Mrs. Ruth Rinehart, social, Mrs. Hazel Kiehl, finance, and Mrs. Clara Hall, publicity.

Membership cards have been received from the international office.

The group accepted invitations to sing for meetings of the Junior Women's Club in September, the Lisbon American Legion Auxiliary in January and the Colloquium Club in February.

Glenn Woods, director, conducted business in the absence of Mrs. Martha Blatchford, president.

A picnic will be held at 8 Friday night in the upper pavilion of Thompson Park. Members will bring wieners for their families.

Fish are unafraid of underwater divers who are equipped with underwater lungs and headpieces. If the diver remains motionless, bass and sunfish will stop and peer through the glass face mask.

How Can I? ? ?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I iron straight adges on long curtains?

A. You'll find this rather difficult job somewhat easier if you iron the curtains slightly damp, and if you pin one end of the curtain to the end of the ironing board and hold the other end with your hand, stretching it tight as you iron.

Q. How can I eliminate the odor from a garment that has been cleaned with turpentine?

A. You can do something about hastening the departure of the odor if you will steam the garment in the bathroom while the hot shower is running, and then air it outdoors for at a least one full day.

Q. How can I prevent the casters on some of my furniture from scratching and streaking my hardwood floors?

A. By applying a coating of floor wax to the treads of the casters

Tight Races Resume In Big Leagues

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that the player pension fund is rolling in crisp All-Star dollars, the athletes can turn their undivided attention to the bread and butter realities of the pennant races.

The National League struggle could be cleared up considerably in the next few days when the third-place Milwaukee Braves visit both the leading San Francisco Giants and the runner-up Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Giants, clinging to a half game lead over the Dodgers, entertain the Braves for the next three days, starting tonight. Milwaukee then moves on to the Coliseum for two big weekend games.

The two-team race in the American League in which Chicago holds a three-game edge over the Cleveland Indians, finds both clubs stepping off on long road trips.

Chicago will play 13 games at Baltimore, Washington, Detroit and Kansas City before returning home for the final visit of the Eastern teams. Cleveland will hit the same cities in a different rotation for a total of 14 consecutive road games.

Unless both the White Sox and Indians collapse completely on this journey, they should have things all to themselves the rest of the way. Baltimore and Kansas City, tied for third, are 11 games back, New York in fifth place is 12 games off the pace and Detroit in sixth trails by 13.

Both races may be won on the road this season. A look at the schedules of the top teams for the rest of the season shows that Chicago plays 29 of its remaining 52 games away, and the Indians have 29 of 50 out of town. In the NL, the Braves have 29 of 50, the Dodgers 25 of 47 and the Giants 26 of 50.

For the opener of the big series at San Francisco, Manager Fred Haney is calling on the veteran Warren Spahn, a 14-game winner, to oppose young Mike McCormick who has won 10 games. It will be the Braves' first look at young Willie McCovey, the Giants' sensational new first baseman who is hitting .500 in four games.

While the Giants and Braves are trying to cut each other's throats, the Dodgers have two games with a Cincinnati club that seems to have come alive.

As the White Sox and Indians start on their long road trips, an analysis of the standings shows it would be next to impossible for any other club to shoulder its way to the pennant.

Chicago has won 62 games with 52 to go. If they play .500 ball, winning only 26 of the rest, they will have won 88 games. A similar pace by Cleveland in its last 50 games would give them 85 victories.

Baltimore with 48 to go would have to scoot at a 36-12 pace to top Chicago. Kansas City with 52 to go would have to play 38-14 ball. New York with 52 to play would need a 39-13 record and Detroit in 48 games would need a 38-10 record to beat Chicago's .500 pace.

Stengel Evens Score In All-Star Series

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The count stood all square at one apiece for the 1959 All-Star classics between the American and National League today. And back to the formal pennant races went the ballplayers.

Manager Casey Stengel's American Leaguers pinned a 5-3 defeat on Fred Haney's Nationals as a paid attendance of 54,982, fourth highest in the game's history, sat through the game in sun-baked Memorial Coliseum Monday.

Individual honors went to catcher Yogi Berra of the Yankees, whose two-run blast off Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale put the Americans in front, 3-1, in the third inning for a lead they never relinquished.

Oddly enough, this was Yogi's 11th All-Star appearance but the first time he had hit for extra bases.

Collective honors went to the American League pitchers who throttled such sluggers as Hank Aaron, Ernie Banks, and Willie Mays.

The winning pitcher was Jerry Walker of Baltimore, 20, who just a year ago was laboring for Knoxville, Tenn., in the Class A Sally League.

Walker, inserted into the squad the afternoon before, yielded but one run and two hits in the three innings he worked.

The loser was strikeout artist Don Drysdale of the Dodgers. Don served up home run balls to Frank Malzone of the Red Sox and Berra.

"This was a great day for the Italians," said Yogi, referring to the homerun by Rocky Colavito of Cleveland in the eighth inning and Malzone's four bagger.

The contest, which lasted 2 hours and 42 minutes, had its moments.

One came with the introduction of the All-Stars. It was hard to say which, if either, drew the biggest hand — big Ted Williams or Stan Musial.

Of course, such Los Angeles idols as Gilliam, Wally Moon, Drysdale and Charlie Neal drew hearty applause. But Williams, in his 16th All-Star game, and Musial in his record 17th, were the sentimental heroes.

Malzone's homer came in the second inning, which tied the score at 1-1 after Johnny Temple had doubled in the first and scored later on Aaron's sacrifice fly.

In the third, Nellie Fox singled and scored on Berra's homer.

From there on it was a homer duel, with the Americans leading the way.

Rosensohn Withdraws From Fight

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There was every indication today the Floyd Patterson - Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship rematch would come off Sept. 22 as tentatively scheduled, but where it will be held and how the arrangements will be handled are in the vague category.

The two remaining directors of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc. — Vincent Vellela and Irving Kahn — admittedly have no experience in fight promotion. Vellela says his interest primarily is in the finances. Kahn, as president of Teleprompter, Inc., is interested primarily in the ancillary rights including television, radio and movies.

This situation developed Monday when Bill Rosensohn, president of Rosensohn enterprises, severed all connection with the organization and said he would sell his one third interest for $75,000 to anyone who cared to buy.

Rosensohn's resignation came as an outgrowth of a feud with Vellela which came into the open last Friday. Vellela, who holds two thirds of the stock, elected Kahn as a third director of the enterprises. Kahn and Rosensohn have not been on the best of terms.

Rosensohn, front man and ostensively promoter of the first fight in June in which Johansson scored a knockout in the third round, said he had offered Vellela and Kahn a chance to buy his stock, or allow him to buy Vellela's stock for $150,000.

Vellela said he would not buy or sell without first going over the company's books.

Vellela said the promotional loss on the first fight was "closer to $70,000 than the announced $40,000" and that the promotional expense was close to $300,000, a figure he termed fantastic.

In Sweden, the champion's advisor, Edwin Ahlquist, said: "We very much regret the resignation of Bill Rosensohn, and we are going to demand a full investigation into the whole business before any decision on the return match is passed."

EL Pony Stars Drop Extra-Inning Tilt, 5-3

Akron Hurler Brilliant In Relief Stint

A great pitching performance by Akron's Wilfred stopped the East Liverpool Pony League All-Stars, 5-3, in an extra-inning battle Monday at the Timken Recreation field in Canton.

It was the first of a three game series to decide the area championship. East Liverpool will meet Akron Wednesday at 6 p. m. at Ashland.

Wilfred entered the game in the third inning with the bases loaded. Although he walked in the tieing run, East Liverpool failed to get a base hit the remainder of the game.

Akron, last year's Pony League champs of Ohio, scored its two winning runs in the eighth inning to break a 3-3 tie when Lange, who entered the game in the fourth, blasted a home run over the centerfield fence with a teammate on base.

It didn't take East Liverpool long to knock Golding, Akron's starting pitcher, from the box. He went to the showers in the third inning.

Wilfred then settled down and struck out the next two men to face him and got Smith to fly out.

Jim Tridico started for East Liverpool and fanned eight while giving up nine hits. He was removed in the seventh inning and Conkle was checked with the loss after giving up a single to Steidl and a home run to Lane, which proved the winning margin.

Furniture City Opens Playoff With 14-4 Win

Furniture City broke on top in the best two out of three playoff series for the Little Minor League title by blasting Coca Cola, 14-4, Monday at Thompson Park field.

Daily Double Returns $121 At Waterford

Ray Belanger guided Royal Revoked to the wire and returned $7.80, $4.60 and $2.60, while C. Knisley was aboard Nicholls W, which paid $12.20, $7.60 and $3.40.

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that the player pension fund is rolling in crisp All-Star dollars, the athletes can turn their undivided attention to the bread and butter realities of the pennant races.

The National League struggle could be cleared up considerably in the next few days when the third-place Milwaukee Braves visit both the leading San Francisco Giants and the runner-up Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Giants, clinging to a half game lead over the Dodgers, entertain the Braves for the next three days, starting tonight. Milwaukee then moves on to the Coliseum for two big weekend games.

The two-team race in the American League in which Chicago holds a three-game edge over the Cleveland Indians, finds both clubs stepping off on long road trips.

Chicago will play 13 games at Baltimore, Washington, Detroit and Kansas City before returning home for the final visit of the Eastern teams. Cleveland will hit the same cities in a different rotation for a total of 14 consecutive road games.

Unless both the White Sox and Indians collapse completely on this journey, they should have things all to themselves the rest of the way. Baltimore and Kansas City, tied for third, are 11 games back, New York in fifth place is 12 games off the pace and Detroit in sixth trails by 13.

Both races may be won on the road this season. A look at the schedules of the top teams for the rest of the season shows that Chicago plays 29 of its remaining 52 games away, and the Indians have 29 of 50 out of town. In the NL, the Braves have 29 of 50, the Dodgers 25 of 47 and the Giants 26 of 50.

For the opener of the big series at San Francisco, Manager Fred Haney is calling on the veteran Warren Spahn, a 14-game winner, to oppose young Mike McCormick who has won 10 games. It will be the Braves' first look at young Willie McCovey, the Giants' sensational new first baseman who is hitting .500 in four games.

While the Giants and Braves are trying to cut each other's throats, the Dodgers have two games with a Cincinnati club that seems to have come alive.

As the White Sox and Indians start on their long road trips, an analysis of the standings shows it would be next to impossible for any other club to shoulder its way to the pennant.

Chicago has won 62 games with 52 to go. If they play .500 ball, winning only 26 of the rest, they will have won 88 games. A similar pace by Cleveland in its last 50 games would give them 85 victories.

Baltimore with 48 to go would have to scoot at a 36-12 pace to top Chicago. Kansas City with 52 to go would have to play 38-14 ball. New York with 52 to play would need a 39-13 record and Detroit in 48 games would need a 38-10 record to beat Chicago's .500 pace.

Stengel Evens Score In All-Star Series

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The count stood all square at one apiece for the 1959 All-Star classics between the American and National League today. And back to the formal pennant races went the ballplayers.

Manager Casey Stengel's American Leaguers pinned a 5-3 defeat on Fred Haney's Nationals as a paid attendance of 54,982, fourth highest in the game's history, sat through the game in sun-baked Memorial Coliseum Monday.

Individual honors went to catcher Yogi Berra of the Yankees, whose two-run blast off Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale put the Americans in front, 3-1, in the third inning for a lead they never relinquished.

Oddly enough, this was Yogi's 11th All-Star appearance but the first time he had hit for extra bases.

Collective honors went to the American League pitchers who throttled such sluggers as Hank Aaron, Ernie Banks, and Willie Mays.

The winning pitcher was Jerry Walker of Baltimore, 20, who just a year ago was laboring for Knoxville, Tenn., in the Class A Sally League.

Walker, inserted into the squad the afternoon before, yielded but one run and two hits in the three innings he worked.

The loser was strikeout artist Don Drysdale of the Dodgers. Don served up home run balls to Frank Malzone of the Red Sox and Berra.

"This was a great day for the Italians," said Yogi, referring to the homerun by Rocky Colavito of Cleveland in the eighth inning and Malzone's four bagger.

The contest, which lasted 2 hours and 42 minutes, had its moments.

One came with the introduction of the All-Stars. It was hard to say which, if either, drew the biggest hand — big Ted Williams or Stan Musial.

Of course, such Los Angeles idols as Gilliam, Wally Moon, Drysdale and Charlie Neal drew hearty applause. But Williams, in his 16th All-Star game, and Musial in his record 17th, were the sentimental heroes.

Malzone's homer came in the second inning, which tied the score at 1-1 after Johnny Temple had doubled in the first and scored later on Aaron's sacritice fly.

In the third, Nellie Fox singled and scored on Berra's homer.

From there on it was a homer duel, with the Americans leading the way.

Rosensohn Withdraws From Fight

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There was every indication today the Floyd Patterson - Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship rematch would come off Sept. 22 as tentatively scheduled, but where it will be held and how the arrangements will be handled are in the vague category.

The two remaining directors of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc. — Vincent Vellela and Irving Kahn—admittedly have no experience in fight promotion. Vellela says his interest primarily is in the finances. Kahn, as president of Teleprompter, Inc., is interested primarily in the ancillary rights including television, radio and movies.

This situation developed Monday when Bill Rosensohn, president of Rosensohn enterprises, severed all connection with the organization and said he would sell his one third interest for $75,000 to anyone who cared to buy.

Rosensohn's resignation came as an outgrowth of a feud with Vellela which came into the open last Friday. Vellela, who holds two thirds of the stock, elected Kahn as a third director of the enterprises. Kahn and Rosensohn have not been on the best of terms.

Rosensohn, front man and ostensively promoter of the first fight in June in which Johansson scored a knockout in the third round, said he had offered Vellela and Kahn a chance to buy his stock, or allow him to buy Vellela's stock for $150,000.

Vellela said he would not buy or sell without first going over the company's books.

Vellela said the promotional loss on the first fight was "closer to $70,000 than the announced $40,000" and that the promotional expense was close to $300,000, a figure he termed fantastic.

In Sweden, the champion's advisor, Edwin Ahlquist, said: "We very much regret the resignation of Bill Rosensohn, and we are going to demand a full investigation into the whole business before any decision on the return match is passed."

EL Pony Stars Drop Extra-Inning Tilt, 5-3

Akron Hurler Brilliant In Relief Stint

A great pitching performance by Akron's Wilfred stopped the East Liverpool Pony League All-Stars, 5-3, in an extra-inning battle Monday at the Timken Recreation field in Canton.

It was the first of a three game series to decide the area championship. East Liverpool will meet Akron Wednesday at 6 p. m. at Ashland.

Wilfred entered the game in the third inning with the bases loaded. Although he walked in the tieing run, East Liverpool failed to get a base hit the remainder of the game.

In six innings, the little southpaw struck out 14 batters and the locals didn't get a ball out of the infield.

Akron, last year's Pony League champs of Ohio, scored its two winning runs in the eighth inning to break a 3-3 tie when Lange, who entered the game in the fourth, blasted a home run over the centerfield fence with a teammate on base.

It didn't take East Liverpool long to knock Golding, Akron's starting pitcher, from the box. He went to the showers in the third inning.

Akron drew first blood with a run in the first frame and tallied another in the second to lead 2-0.

Jim Tridico grounded to shortstop, giving Sparks enough time to score. Gary Shaw came through with a base hit that sent Pruden across the plate with the tieing run.

In the East Liverpool half of the inning, Dave Myer and Gary Berhar opened with singles and Sparks was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases.

This sent Golding to the showers and Wilfred entered the game. He walked Pruden to force in Myer from third to make it a 3-3 game.

Wilfred then settled down and struck out the next two men to face him and got Smith to fly out.

Jim Tridico started for East Liverpool and fanned eight while giving up nine hits. He was removed in the seventh inning and Conkle was checked with the loss after giving up a single to Steidl and a home run to Lane, which proved the winning margin.

Furniture City Opens Playoff With 14-4 Win

Furniture City broke on top in the best two out of three playoff series for the Little Minor League title by blasting Coca Cola, 14-4, Monday at Thompson Park field.

The two teams will meet tonight at 6 on the Thompson Park diamond.

Daily Double Returns $121 At Waterford

Ray Belanger guided Royal Revoked to the wire and returned $7.80, $4.60 and $2.60, while C. Knisley was aboard Nicholls W, which paid $12.20, $7.60 and $3.40.

Jockey Francisco Saumell was the only double winner Monday, with Bee Anne in the third and Lost Humility in the ninth race.

Tribe Hopes To Extend Senators' Losing String

WASHINGTON (AP) — Do you think the Cleveland Indians are happy about opening a four-game series tonight with the last-place Washington Senators?

Guess again. The reason: Washington has lost 16 in a row and every schoolboy has heard about the law of averages.

That's the modern record for successive losses. The Indians will open tonight with Jim Perry (6-3) on the mound against the Senators' Bill Fischer (8-6).

The Indians trail the first-place Chicago White Sox by three games and by four in the important "loss" column. Chicago has a 62-40 mark, while the Tribe is 60-44.

Gordon also may unveil his new lineup changes tonight. If he does, hot-hitting Tito Francona will shift from center field to first base and Woodie Held will take over in center. Vic Power will go from first to third base. George Strickland will be at shortstop and Billy Martin at second base.

Russ Nixon, with three hits in the second game Sunday, showed signs of breaking out of his season-long slump (.173 batting average) and will be behind the plate handling Perry.

Back in the 1880's the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway in Arkansas tried to encourage travelers with the enticement that "there will be no charges for dogs and guns."

Will Miss Kicking Of Tommy Davis, LSU Coach Says

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Paul Dietzel says he does not think his Louisiana State football team was the best in the nation last year and he wonders if this season's will be as good.

While he has 31 of 35 lettermen back, including All American Billy Cannon, and 24 of his players will be seniors, Dietzel said he would miss the good all around kicking of Tommy Davis. "We have three important phases of football — offense, defense and kicking," he declared. "Davis was the best in America last year."

Davis had another season of eligibility but he signed with the professional San Francisco 49ers.

Swimmer Fined

LISBON — Bob Capps, 23, of 528 Aetna St., Salem, was fined $10 and costs Monday by County Judge James L. MacDonald after he pleaded guilty to swimming from a boat on Guilford Lake. He was cited by Constable Roy Painter of Hanoverton.

Tribe Hopes To Extend Senators' Losing String

WASHINGTON (AP) — Do you think the Cleveland Indians are happy about opening a four-game series tonight with the last-place Washington Senators?

Guess again. The reason: Washington has lost 16 in a row and every schoolboy has heard about the law of averages.

That's the modern record for successive losses. The Indians will open tonight with Jim Perry (6-3) on the mound against the Senators' Bill Fischer (8-6).

The Indians trail the first-place Chicago White Sox by three games and by four in the important "loss" column. Chicago has a 62-40 mark, while the Tribe is 60-44.

Gordon also may unveil his new lineup changes tonight. If he does, hot-hitting Tito Francona will shift from center field to first base and Woodie Held will take over in center. Vic Power will go from first to third base. George Strickland will be at shortstop and Billy Martin at second base.

Russ Nixon, with three hits in the second game Sunday, showed signs of breaking out of his season-long slump (.173 batting average) and will be behind the plate handling Perry.

Back in the 1880's the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway in Arkansas tried to encourage travelers with the enticement that "there will be no charges for dogs and guns."

Will Miss Kicking Of Tommy Davis, LSU Coach Says

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Paul Dietzel says he does not think his Louisiana State football team was the best in the nation last year and he wonders if this season's will be as good.

The headman of the team voted number one in the country with an unbeaten season made his comments at the Texas coaching school.

While he has 31 of 35 lettermen back, including All American Billy Cannon, and 24 of his players will be seniors, Dietzel said he would miss the good all around kicking of Tommy Davis. "We have three important phases of football — offense, defense and kicking," he declared. "Davis was the best in America last year."

Davis had another season of eligibility but he signed with the professional San Francisco 49ers.

Swimmer Fined

LISBON — Bob Capps, 23, of 528 Aetna St., Salem, was fined $10 and costs Monday by County Judge James L. MacDonald after he pleaded guilty to swimming from a boat on Guilford Lake. He was cited by Constable Roy Painter of Hanoverton.

Out Of The Air

'Minority Programming' Dwindles

If nothing else, television has proved this year that there's no room in the medium for discriminating programming, or what television executives are inclined to call "minority programming" (a painful reminder, we'd say, of the low estimation TV has of the public's mentality). Last season it was Ed Murrow's "See It Now" that was dissolved in spite of critical lamentations, and this year the viewer of taste has even more to cry about.

Marie Torre

"Voice of Firestone," after having enriched the airwaves for 31 years, recently was put to rest. A cancellation notice also was posted for the experimental and noble-minded "Omnibus."

The loss of these shows is a blow to good television, and we cannot help feeling the same way about the impending termination (Sept. 25) of Sam Levenson's morning show, the program he inherited from Arthur Godfrey.

IN THE SCHEME of morning television, the Levenson program offers intelligent, thought-provoking conversations at a time when the channels are a maze of reruns and re-reruns.

Repeats of "December Bride" will absorb Levenson's spot when he leaves CBS and, as he says, "it's not because I'm going off that I'm unhappy, it's what the American people will get 'instead of' . . . that saddens me."

The reference is to the loyal legion of viewers ("a couple of million nice people who write") who look to Levenson's TV conversations as relief from the improbable shenanigans that fill the daytime hours. Happily, he himself hasn't joined CBS in abandoning the show's future prospects.

"I THINK I suspected all along," he said, "that the show wouldn't continue in the fall. I kept hearing rumors about being replaced by 'December Bride,' and down deep in my heart I hoped that if CBS had sold our time period we'd be moved to another slot.

"Since CBS hasn't such a plan, there's nothing to prevent me from trying to sell it elsewhere. Maybe there'll be a place for us on NBC or ABC.

"I'd hate to see the show go down the drain because, frankly, it's one format that makes me feel as if I'm making a contribution to TV."

Lest people in and out of TV get the impression these are "bitter" sentiments, Levenson added:

"Nobody promised me a fall show, and I'm not going to make a dramatic exit. Art, you must remember, is not a personal thing.

THERE BEING a dearth of available stars for next season's many specials, television is going off the show business track for its talent. First Harry S. Truman was persuaded to appear with Jack Benny on TV in the fall, and now comes word that U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas will turn up in one of John Gunther's "High Road" shows on ABC. . . .

Betty Furness and her sponsor will NOT part, after all. The company, whose refrigerators have been glorified by Betty for 10 years, had a change of heart and gave her a contract for another year. . . .

The TV Western has come around to making a hero out of the Indian. In NBC's "Tales of the Plainsman," the top gun will be an Apache Indian who serves as a deputy U.S. marshal in the New Mexico Territory of 1885. Michael Ansara has the title role.

-:-

HAVING SHED 45 pounds, Jackie Gleason has returned from Shawnee-on-the-Delaware to rehearse for Broadway's musical version of "Ah, Wilderness." . . .

When Ed Murrow returns to CBS next July 1, it's reported, he will begin work on 10 full-hour news-in-depth shows. . . .

Woman Wounds Niece Then Takes Own Life

The woman was Mrs. Anna B. Taylor, 48. Her niece, Mrs. Palmeta Allen, 25-year-old mother of two, was reported in fair condition at Chaerleroi - Monessen Hospital with a chest wound.

West Virginia Tax Yield May Top Estimate

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginia may get two - thirds more than was anticipated from the new property transfer tax.

Collections last month, the first the tax was in effect, have led some members of the state Tax Department to predict a yield of $750,000 this fiscal year.

Optimism about the yield of the transfer tax developed because of the experience in Kanawha County last month.

Sale of the stamps that have to be affixed to deeds came to $8,246. The three-quarters of a million estimate for the fiscal year in the whole state was arrived at because of the assumption that Kanawha will provide 10 to 15 per cent of the total.

The county clerk's office here said sales in the first month might prove lower than average because of the big June rush to record deeds before the tax went into effect.

Clerks have indicated to the state Tax Department that they are worried about their responsibilities in carrying out the new law.

Tax stamps are sold in the amount the valuation on the deed calls for. The clerks may be fined $50 if found guilty of recording a deed without the proper number of stamps.

The law provides that the tax is to be calculated according to the actual valuation, not this consideration.

What are the clerks to do if they suspect the valuation as given is not correct.

The next legislature may be asked to clear up these points — and to add a fee to cover local administration of the transfer tax.

Information reaching the tax department indicated some clerks thought 10 per cent of the present amount would be about right.

Man To Face Jury In White Slavery

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Five young women testified Monday that they were duped, raped and forced into prostitution by Nicholas Silia Jr., an ex-convict charged with operating a white slavery racket.

Alderman Leonard A. Civill ordered Silia, 24, held without bond for the grand jury pending outcome of an investigation by the Allegheny County Behavior Clinic.

The young women, aged 17 to 23, said Silia lured them into employment for a reputed escort service, then forced them at gunpoint into immoral relations with himself and others.

Silia was charged on 17 counts, including rape, sodomy, false pretense, pointing firearms and pandering. He denied the charges.

Murder Charge Filed In Youth's Gun Death

John Woodruff, 16, of Ceraopolis was shot in the chest Sunday.

Allegheny County Detective Ted Botula said Monday Woodruff and several other boys were giving Fisher a punch on the shoulder for each of his 17 years.

Dies From Wounds

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Genevieve Bundy, 22, shot by her husband Sunday night just before he wounded himself fatally, died in Trumbull Memorial Hospital Monday night of her wounds. Mrs. Bundy, estranged from Ralph E. Bundy, 25, had gone to the family home to pick up some belongings when the double shooting occurred. The couple leave a son, Mark, 3.

Grand Jury Continues Probe Into Activities By Lobbyists

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle says he might call a special session of the Legislature if a grand jury probe here turns up evidence of illegal activities between lawmakers and lobbyists.

The jury is trying to determine whether there is any truth to a report that a lobbyist tried to pay the hotel bill of a state senator; and, if there is, whether any laws were violated.

Webster's Dictionary defines lobbyists as persons who "address or solicit members of a legislative body in the lobby (of a legislative house) or elsewhere, with intent to influence legislation."

County Prosecutor Earl W. Allison said the jury heard four hours of testimony Monday from the manager, assistant manager and auditor of the Deshler Hilton Hotel here, and from Don Weaver, editor of the Columbus Citizen.

The hotel men, Allison said, testified relative to hotel records concerning the lobbyist and senator in question. The records covered a period from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1.

"Perhaps the records of other hotels, legislators and lobbyists will be subpoenaed later," the prosecutor added.

DiSalle Urges Continuing Of Highway Help

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle believes the nation's governors should urge Congress to continue the federal aid highway program at the current level of spending for the time being.

He cabled that thought Monday to Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, chairman of the Governors' Conference now in session in Puerto Rico.

"It should be impressed upon Congress," DiSalle told Collins, "that the need for continuing the program at or near past levels is more urgent now than was the need for originating the program."

DiSalle noted that "failure by Congress to provide for continuation of the highway program has already caused 25 states, including Ohio, to indefinitely suspend award of all highway contracts involving federal aid."

Boy Given Seven Years For Dogs' Train Death

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — He and a friend tied two dogs to railroad tracks and waited for a train to come, 14-year-old Danny Clem admitted in Juvenile Court.

And Danny, of nearby Dixon, appeared unremorseful as he told about it, said Judge Cathryn Harrington, as she announced disposition of the case Monday.

The judge sentenced the boy to seven years in Ohio's Boys Industrial School, with recommendation that he not be released before serving the maximum sentence.

The case of the older boy is being handled by a court in adjacent Paulding County.

Publisher Named To Utilities Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has named Robert Reider, Port Clinton publisher and former state representative, as a member of the Public Utilities Commission.

Reider will serve out the 18 months remaining in the six-year term of Edward J. Kenealy of Cleveland.

DiSalle recently appointed Kenealy to the six-year term of Ralph A. Winter of Lodi. Winter's appointment expired Feb. 1, but he continued to serve.

Kenealy and Reider are Democrats. Their salaries will be $16,000 a year.

Everett H. Krueger Jr. of Cleveland, former chairman, will remain as a member of the commission. Krueger and Winter are Republicans.

DiSalle Signs Action For Aid Of Aged, Blind

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle signed into law Monday a legislative enactment removing the $65 monthly ceiling on pensions for the needy aged and blind.

The governor said the new law makes it possible for Ohio to meet the needs of the aged and blind 100 per cent.

Ohio now has 86,000 old age pensioners and about 37,000 needy blind on its roles.

The governor said only about 50 per cent of those on the roles had been receiving their full requirements for food, clothing and shelter.

Estimated cost of increased care under the new program will run $21,267,000 over a two-year period. He said the federal government would contribute $9,267,000 of the additional expense.

The governor also signed bills banning new licenses for 14- and 15-year-old motor scooter operators, creating a college scholarship fund and establishing a Racing Commission of five members. He also signed a 97-million-dollar capital improvements law, but withheld his signature from a measure appropriating a million dollars to pay claims against the state. The governor said he wanted to examine some of the claims.

Death Comes Fast In Penicillin Shot

CLEVELAND (AP)—It is estimated unofficially that only one person in 200,000 shows a severe reaction to penicillin. But a 45-year-old Cleveland workman suffered such a severe reaction Monday that he died only 30 minutes after receiving an injection.

The victim was James Ellington, an oiler employed by Hotel Cleveland. He was sent home from work because of a high fever, 104 degrees.

He went to his doctor, who asked if Ellington was allergic to penicillin. The doctor was told the patient was not, his nurse reported. A few minutes after the injection, the patient collapsed.

County Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said complete autopsy results were not yet received. However, he said it appeared that a combination of the drug and Ellington's illness, diagnosed as pneumonia, probably was too much of a strain on his heart.

Jeans, Slacks Banned

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Blue jeans and slacks are fine out on the farm—but not at the Colorado State Fair, in the opinion of manager Clyde Fugate. He directed that women wear dresses when they attend the fair, opening Aug. 24.

Death Penalty Will Be Asked In Attack Case

LAGRANGE, Ga. (AP) — The state will demand the death penalty for three Negroes accused of raping two white women last Saturday, Solicitor General Wright Lipford said Monday.

A grand jury, which included one Negro, returned two indictments in the case Monday. The first charges Clifford Johnson, 32, Brannon Epps, 24, and George Alford Jr., 18, with raping one of the women. The other indictment charges Epps and Alford with raping the other victim.

Police said the three Negroes had raped the women after first scaring them away from their escorts and finally snatching them from three would-be Negro protectors.

3 Buildings Razed By $200,000 Fire

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Damage estimated at $200,000 was caused by a fire Monday that destroyed three buildings in East Toledo leased by the Andersons, a grain elevator firm.

Fire Chief Arnold Papenhagen, who estimated the damage, said the fire apparently originated from sparks caused by friction when a conveyor belt slipped from its rollers as grain was being unloaded from a railroad car.

More than 100 firemen fought the blaze for two hours before bringing it under control. No one was hurt, but several firemen narrowly escaped injury when a brick wall collapsed.

Later, Thomas Anderson, one of the owners of the elevator, and two firemen required oxygen after being overcome by smoke and fumes while surveying the damage.

Approximately 125,000 bushels of wheat and several thousands of bushels of corn were stored in the three buildings destroyed. The flames also consumed four grain-laden railroad box cars on a siding near the elevator buildings.

Three Children Perish As Playhouse Burns

The victims were Mary, 4, Mark, 5, and Kathy Bryant, 6, children of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bryant.

"I kicked in the front door, but it was too late," said Willard Bradbury, a fireman who lives next door and discovered the fire. The four-foot high playhouse was located in a corner of the family's yard. There was no immediate explanation of how the fire began.

The children's parents were at work, and a babysitter was tending three other Bryant children in the house.

2-Year Colleges Will Be Discussed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle will meet Wednesday with a group of prominent educators to discuss legislation authorizing creation of two-year junior colleges.

The governor said the state would be obligated to pay half the cost of building the colleges and one-third the cost of operating them. But he said no money is available for that purpose now.

Asked to attend the meeting were State Rep. Michael A. Sweeney (D-Cuyahoga), sponsor of the college bill; Dr. John Baker, president of Ohio University and chairman of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School; Dr. John Millett, president of Miami (Ohio) University; Dr. Terry Wickham, president of Heidelberg College and head of the Ohio College Assn.; Dr. E. E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction; and Ralph Besse, executive secretary of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. and chairman of the Cleveland Commission on Higher Education.

"Voice of Firestone," after having enriched the airwaves for 31 years, recently was put to rest. A cancellation notice also was posted for the experimental and noble-minded "Omnibus."

The loss of these shows is a blow to good television, and we cannot help feeling the same way about the impending termination (Sept. 25) of Sam Levenson's morning show, the program he inherited from Arthur Godfrey.

IN THE SCHEME of morning television, the Levenson program offers intelligent, thought-provoking conversations at a time when the channels are a maze of reruns and re-reruns.

Repeats of "December Bride" will absorb Levenson's spot when he leaves CBS and, as he says, "it's not because I'm going off that I'm unhappy, it's what the American people will get 'instead of' . . . that saddens me."

The reference is to the loyal legion of viewers ("a couple of million nice people who write") who look to Levenson's TV conversations as relief from the improbable shenanigans that fill the daytime hours. Happily, he himself hasn't joined CBS in abandoning the show's future prospects.

"I THINK I suspected all along," he said, "that the show wouldn't continue in the fall. I kept hearing rumors about being replaced by 'December Bride,' and down deep in my heart I hoped that if CBS had sold our time period we'd be moved to another slot.

"Since CBS hasn't such a plan, there's nothing to prevent me from trying to sell it elsewhere. Maybe there'll be a place for us on NBC or ABC.

"I'd hate to see the show go down the drain because, frankly, it's one format that makes me feel as if I'm making a contribution to TV."

Lest people in and out of TV get the impression these are "bitter" sentiments, Levenson added:

"Nobody promised me a fall show, and I'm not going to make a dramatic exit. Art, you must remember, is not a personal thing.

THERE BEING a dearth of available stars for next season's many specials, television is going off the show business track for its talent. First Harry S. Truman was persuaded to appear with Jack Benny on TV in the fall, and now comes word that U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas will turn up in one of John Gunther's "High Road" shows on ABC. . . .

Betty Furness and her sponsor will NOT part, after all. The company, whose refrigerators have been glorified by Betty for 10 years, had a change of heart and gave her a contract for another year. . . .

The TV Western has come around to making a hero out of the Indian. In NBC's "Tales of the Plainsman," the top gun will be an Apache Indian who serves as a deputy U.S. marshal in the New Mexico Territory of 1885. Michael Ansara has the title role.

HAVING SHED 45 pounds, Jackie Gleason has returned from Shawnee-on-the-Delaware to rehearse for Broadway's musical version of "Ah, Wilderness." . . .

When Ed Murrow returns to CBS next July 1, it's reported, he will begin work on 10 full-hour news-in-depth shows. . . .

Woman Wounds Niece Then Takes Own Life

The woman was Mrs. Anna B. Taylor, 48. Her niece, Mrs. Palmeta Allen, 25-year-old mother of two, was reported in fair condition at Chaerleroi - Monessen Hospital with a chest wound.

West Virginia Tax Yield May Top Estimate

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginia may get two - thirds more than was anticipated from the new property transfer tax.

Collections last month, the first the tax was in effect, have led some members of the state Tax Department to predict a yield of $750,000 this fiscal year.

The figure put before the last legislature when it considered the tax prior to enactment was $450,000.

The money, however much it may be, goes into the general revenue fund.

Optimism about the yield of the transfer tax developed because of the experience in Kanawha County last month.

Sale of the stamps that have to be affixed to deeds came to $8,246. The three-quarters of a million estimate for the fiscal year in the whole state was arrived at because of the assumption that Kanawha will provide 10 to 15 per cent of the total.

The county clerk's office here said sales in the first month might prove lower than average because of the big June rush to record deeds before the tax went into effect.

The tax runs $1.10 for each $500 of the value of the property.

Clerks have indicated to the state Tax Department that they are worried about their responsibilities in carrying out the new law.

Tax stamps are sold in the amount the valuation on the deed calls for. The clerks may be fined $50 if found guilty of recording a deed without the proper number of stamps.

The question is what they should do if they know that the valuation set forth is too low.

The law provides that the tax is to be calculated according to the actual valuation, not this consideration.

What are the clerks to do if they suspect the valuation as given is not correct.

The next legislature may be asked to clear up these points — and to add a fee to cover local administration of the transfer tax.

Information reaching the tax department indicated some clerks thought 10 per cent of the present amount would be about right.

Man To Face Jury In White Slavery

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Five young women testified Monday that they were duped, raped and forced into prostitution by Nicholas Silia Jr., an ex-convict charged with operating a white slavery racket.

Alderman Leonard A. Civill ordered Silia, 24, held without bond for the grand jury pending outcome of an investigation by the Allegheny County Behavior Clinic.

The young women, aged 17 to 23, said Silia lured them into employment for a reputed escort service, then forced them at gunpoint into immoral relations with himself and others.

Silia was charged on 17 counts, including rape, sodomy, false pretense, pointing firearms and pandering. He denied the charges.

Murder Charge Filed In Youth's Gun Death

John Woodruff, 16, of Coraopolis was shot in the chest Sunday.

Allegheny County Detective Ted Botula said Monday Woodruff and several other boys were giving Fisher a punch on the shoulder for each of his 17 years.

Fisher, according to Botula, apparently became angry, went home and picked up a pistol.

Dies From Wounds

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Genevieve Bundy, 22, shot by her husband Sunday night just before he wounded himself fatally, died in Trumbull Memorial Hospital Monday night of her wounds. Mrs. Bundy, estranged from Ralph E. Bundy, 25, had gone to the family home to pick up some belongings when the double shooting occurred. The couple leave a son, Mark, 3.

Grand Jury Continues Probe Into Activities By Lobbyists

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle says he might call a special session of the Legislature if a grand jury probe here turns up evidence of illegal activities between lawmakers and lobbyists.

The Franklin County grand jury resumes its investigation today after hearing testimony Monday from three hotel executives and a newspaper editor.

The jury is trying to determine whether there is any truth to a report that a lobbyist tried to pay the hotel bill of a state senator; and, if there is, whether any laws were violated.

Webster's Dictionary defines lobbyists as persons who "address or solicit members of a legislative body in the lobby (of a legislative house) or elsewhere, with intent to influence legislation."

County Prosecutor Earl W. Allison said the jury heard four hours of testimony Monday from the manager, assistant manager and auditor of the Deshler Hilton Hotel here, and from Don Weaver, editor of the Columbus Citizen.

The hotel men, Allison said, testified relative to hotel records concerning the lobbyist and senator in question. The records covered a period from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1.

"Perhaps the records of other hotels, legislators and lobbyists will be subpoenaed later," the prosecutor added.

Weaver said he summarized for the jury his newspaper's stories on lobbyist-legislative relationships.

DiSalle Urges Continuing Of Highway Help

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle believes the nation's governors should urge Congress to continue the federal aid highway program at the current level of spending for the time being.

He cabled that thought Monday to Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, chairman of the Governors' Conference now in session in Puerto Rico.

"It should be impressed upon Congress," DiSalle told Collins, "that the need for continuing the program at or near past levels is more urgent now than was the need for originating the program."

DiSalle noted that "failure by Congress to provide for continuation of the highway program has already caused 25 states, including Ohio, to indefinitely suspend award of all highway contracts involving federal aid."

Boy Given Seven Years For Dogs' Train Death

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — He and a friend tied two dogs to railroad tracks and waited for a train to come, 14-year-old Danny Clem admitted in Juvenile Court.

And Danny, of nearby Dixon, appeared unremorseful as he told about it, said Judge Cathryn Harrington, as she announced disposition of the case Monday.

The judge sentenced the boy to seven years in Ohio's Boys Industrial School, with recommendation that he not be released before serving the maximum sentence.

The case of the older boy is being handled by a court in adjacent Paulding County.

Publisher Named To Utilities Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has named Robert Reider, Port Clinton publisher and former state representative, as a member of the Public Utilities Commission.

Reider will serve out the 18 months remaining in the six-year term of Edward J. Kenealy of Cleveland.

DiSalle recently appointed Kenealy to the six-year term of Ralph A. Winter of Lodi. Winter's appointment expired Feb. 1, but he continued to serve.

Kenealy and Reider are Democrats. Their salaries will be $16,000 a year.

Everett H. Krueger Jr. of Cleveland, former chairman, will remain as a member of the commission. Krueger and Winter are Republicans.

DiSalle Signs Action For Aid Of Aged, Blind

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle signed into law Monday a legislative enactment removing the $65 monthly ceiling on pensions for the needy aged and blind.

He described the measure as one of the most progressive acts taken by the 103rd General Assembly.

The governor said the new law makes it possible for Ohio to meet the needs of the aged and blind 100 per cent.

Ohio now has 86,000 old age pensioners and about 37,000 needy blind on its roles.

The governor said only about 50 per cent of those on the roles had been receiving their full requirements for food, clothing and shelter.

Estimated cost of increased care under the new program will run $21,267,000 over a two-year period. He said the federal government would contribute $9,267,000 of the additional expense.

The governor also signed bills banning new licenses for 14- and 15-year-old motor scooter operators, creating a college scholarship fund and establishing a Racing Commission of five members. He also signed a 97-million-dollar capital improvements law, but withheld his signature from a measure appropriating a million dollars to pay claims against the state. The governor said he wanted to examine some of the claims.

Death Comes Fast In Penicillin Shot

CLEVELAND (AP)—It is estimated unofficially that only one person in 200,000 shows a severe reaction to penicillin. But a 45-year-old Cleveland workman suffered such a severe reaction Monday that he died only 30 minutes after receiving an injection.

The victim was James Ellington, an oiler employed by Hotel Cleveland. He was sent home from work because of a high fever, 104 degrees.

He went to his doctor, who asked if Ellington was allergic to penicillin. The doctor was told the patient was not, his nurse reported. A few minutes after the injection, the patient collapsed.

The doctor then administered an antidote for the shock reaction, but the patient did not respond.

County Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said complete autopsy results were not yet received. However, he said it appeared that a combination of the drug and Ellington's illness, diagnosed as pneumonia, probably was too much of a strain on his heart.

Jeans, Slacks Banned

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Blue jeans and slacks are fine out on the farm—but not at the Colorado State Fair, in the opinion of manager Clyde Fugate. He directed that women wear dresses when they attend the fair, opening Aug. 24.

Death Penalty Will Be Asked In Attack Case

LAGRANGE, Ga. (AP) — The state will demand the death penalty for three Negroes accused of raping two white women last Saturday, Solicitor General Wright Lipford said Monday.

The trio will go on trial next Monday.

A grand jury, which included one Negro, returned two indictments in the case Monday. The first charges Clifford Johnson, 32, Brannon Epps, 24, and George Alford Jr., 18, with raping one of the women. The other indictment charges Epps and Alford with raping the other victim.

Police said the three Negroes had raped the women after first scaring them away from their escorts and finally snatching them from three would-be Negro protectors.

3 Buildings Razed By $200,000 Fire

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Damage estimated at $200,000 was caused by a fire Monday that destroyed three buildings in East Toledo leased by the Andersons, a grain elevator firm.

Fire Chief Arnold Papenhagen, who estimated the damage, said the fire apparently originated from sparks caused by friction when a conveyor belt slipped from its rollers as grain was being unloaded from a railroad car.

More than 100 firemen fought the blaze for two hours before bringing it under control. No one was hurt, but several firemen narrowly escaped injury when a brick wall collapsed.

Later, Thomas Anderson, one of the owners of the elevator, and two firemen required oxygen after being overcome by smoke and fumes while surveying the damage.

Approximately 125,000 bushels of wheat and several thousands of bushels of corn were stored in the three buildings destroyed. The flames also consumed four grain-laden railroad box cars on a siding near the elevator buildings.

Three Children Perish As Playhouse Burns

The victims were Mary, 4, Mark, 5, and Kathy Bryant, 6, children of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bryant.

"I kicked in the front door, but it was too late," said Willard Bradbury, a fireman who lives next door and discovered the fire. The four-foot high playhouse was located in a corner of the family's yard. There was no immediate explanation of how the fire began.

The children's parents were at work, and a babysitter was tending three other Bryant children in the house.

2-Year Colleges Will Be Discussed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle will meet Wednesday with a group of prominent educators to discuss legislation authorizing creation of two-year junior colleges.

The governor said the state would be obligated to pay half the cost of building the colleges and one-third the cost of operating them. But he said no money is available for that purpose now.

Asked to attend the meeting were State Rep. Michael A. Sweeney (D-Cuyahoga), sponsor of the college bill; Dr. John Baker, president of Ohio University and chairman of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School; Dr. John Millett, president of Miami (Ohio) University; Dr. Terry Wickham, president of Heidelberg College and head of the Ohio College Assn.; Dr. E. E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction; and Ralph Besse, executive secretary of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. and chairman of the Cleveland Commission on Higher Education.
